JANET MILLS
GOVERNOR

STATE OF MAINE OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR AUGUSTA, MAINE

Dear Campers,

I could not be more honored to welcome you to our beautiful state.

From the mountains of western Maine to our rolling inland hills to our iconic rocky coasts, you will find there is a good reason why we're known as Vacationland.

Here in Maine, you will also find everything you need: untouched wilderness camping in Baxter State Park and Katahdin Woods and Waters National Monument, along with several amazing state parks for whatever experience you're looking to have.

We hope you join us camping this year, and I am confident that after one visit you will want to return for more. We wish you the best, and I hope to run into you while I'm out hiking or fly fishing.

Enjoy your stay.

Sincerely,
Janet T. Mills

We Welcome You

COPYRIGHT CAIT FITZGERALD OF MAINE'S MIDCOAST & ISLANDS

As you begin preparations for your own camping trip, we want to say "Thank You" for selecting the Maine Campground Owners Association guide to Camping in Maine.

For well over a century, Maine has been a nature lover's paradise and leading destination – Vacationland – for those seeking authentic outdoor experiences. Our 181 campground owners deliver generations of expertise, offering unsurpassed service to every kind of camper – a history that has allowed us to create the gold standard for enjoyable and diverse camping experiences. Camping in Maine is truly the best.

Knowing that camping can be many things to many people, Maine campground owners welcome everyone seeking any of the available modern-day camping experiences: Tent Camping lets the camper disconnect from a busier-than-ever world and reconnect with family and friends; RV and Resort Campgrounds offer outdoor bliss blended with comfort and convenience; also, a growing number of campers are seeking out the ease that comes with a Cabin Rental – imagine finding your ideal camping spot without sacrificing anything – that's what we're talking about!

The Maine Campground Owners Association has long been the leading provider of quality resources for Maine visitors looking to enjoy camping along every inch of our beautiful ocean coastline with its quaint harbors and historic lighthouses or among the millions of acres of lakes, rivers and woodland forest that carpet inland Maine; we are here to help.

The opportunity for adventure in Maine is limited only by your own creativity, from the timeless pleasure of roasting marshmallows to an all-day excursion to explore distinctive island communities. Hiking, biking, paddling, moose safari, sunset ATV tours, whale watching, rock climbing, sailing, museums and galleries, live performances of all kinds, and endless foodie diversions. Maine is also home to Acadia, America's Most Scenic National Park (see page 70).

Whatever your pleasure, we are certain there is something in Maine to delight everyone. Within these pages you will find a collection of articles, search tools, grids and advertisements to guide you, matching you with the right camping experience in a part of the state that perfectly matches your needs, or if you prefer, call us at 207-782-5874 or use our extensive campground search tools at CampMaine.com.

Regardless of how you find your way here, when you get to Maine you will quickly learn why we are one of our nation's most popular vacation destinations.

On behalf of each one of our Maine Campground Owners Association members, welcome to Maine.

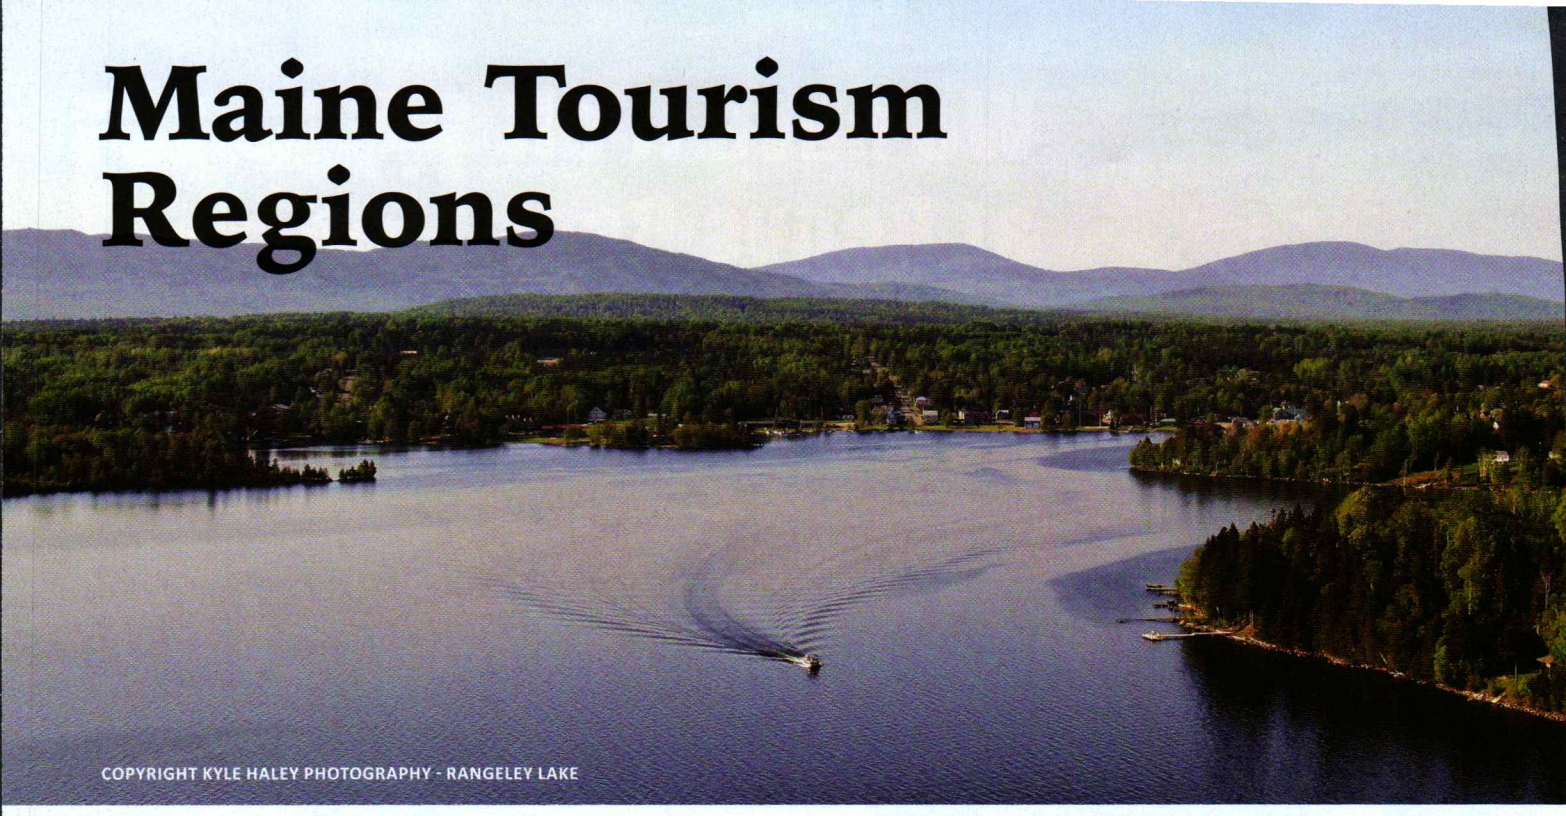
Maine Tourism Regions



COPYRIGHT KYLE HALEY PHOTOGRAPHY - RANGELEY LAKE

Your Maine camping experience may take you to just one part of our state or through many. In total, Maine is divided into eight major tourism regions, each representing the various geographic and cultural features we have to offer. Within the CampMaine Guide, a color key differentiates regions of the state. We also include an extensive description for each of the eight regions.

JUST THE FACTS

Maine is the largest of the New England states, so large in fact that the combined area of all of the rest of the New England states is smaller than the total area of Maine (35,385 sq. mi.). From bottom to top, the state is 320 miles (around the distance from New York City to Richmond, Virginia) and 210 miles at its widest (though there's no road between the two points). Island hoppers have 3,000 or more offshore islands to pick from. As the crow flies, our famous coastline is just about 230 miles, but stretch Maine out end-to-end for a 3,478-mile ride. (That's a cross-country trip in some places.) Maine offers more than 28,000 bodies of water – 6,000 ponds and lakes over an acre in size and 22,000 pools and ponds, totaling 2,270 sq. mi. of inland water. And this doesn't include the large number of vernal pools that we see each spring. Maine has more than 32,000 miles of flowing water for fishing and paddling as well, and though we can't tell you exactly how many we have, we can point you in the direction of some of our state's best and most beautiful waterfalls (page 64). Inland Maine is one of the last remaining East Coast wilderness areas (the Allagash Wilderness Watershed), an ideal place to go where no one will find you. Home to the Great North Woods – with 3.5 million of the total 17 million thickly wooded acres of Maine and limited passable roads, it is considered one of the least populated places – and perhaps most serene – in the whole USA.

REGIONS OF MAINE

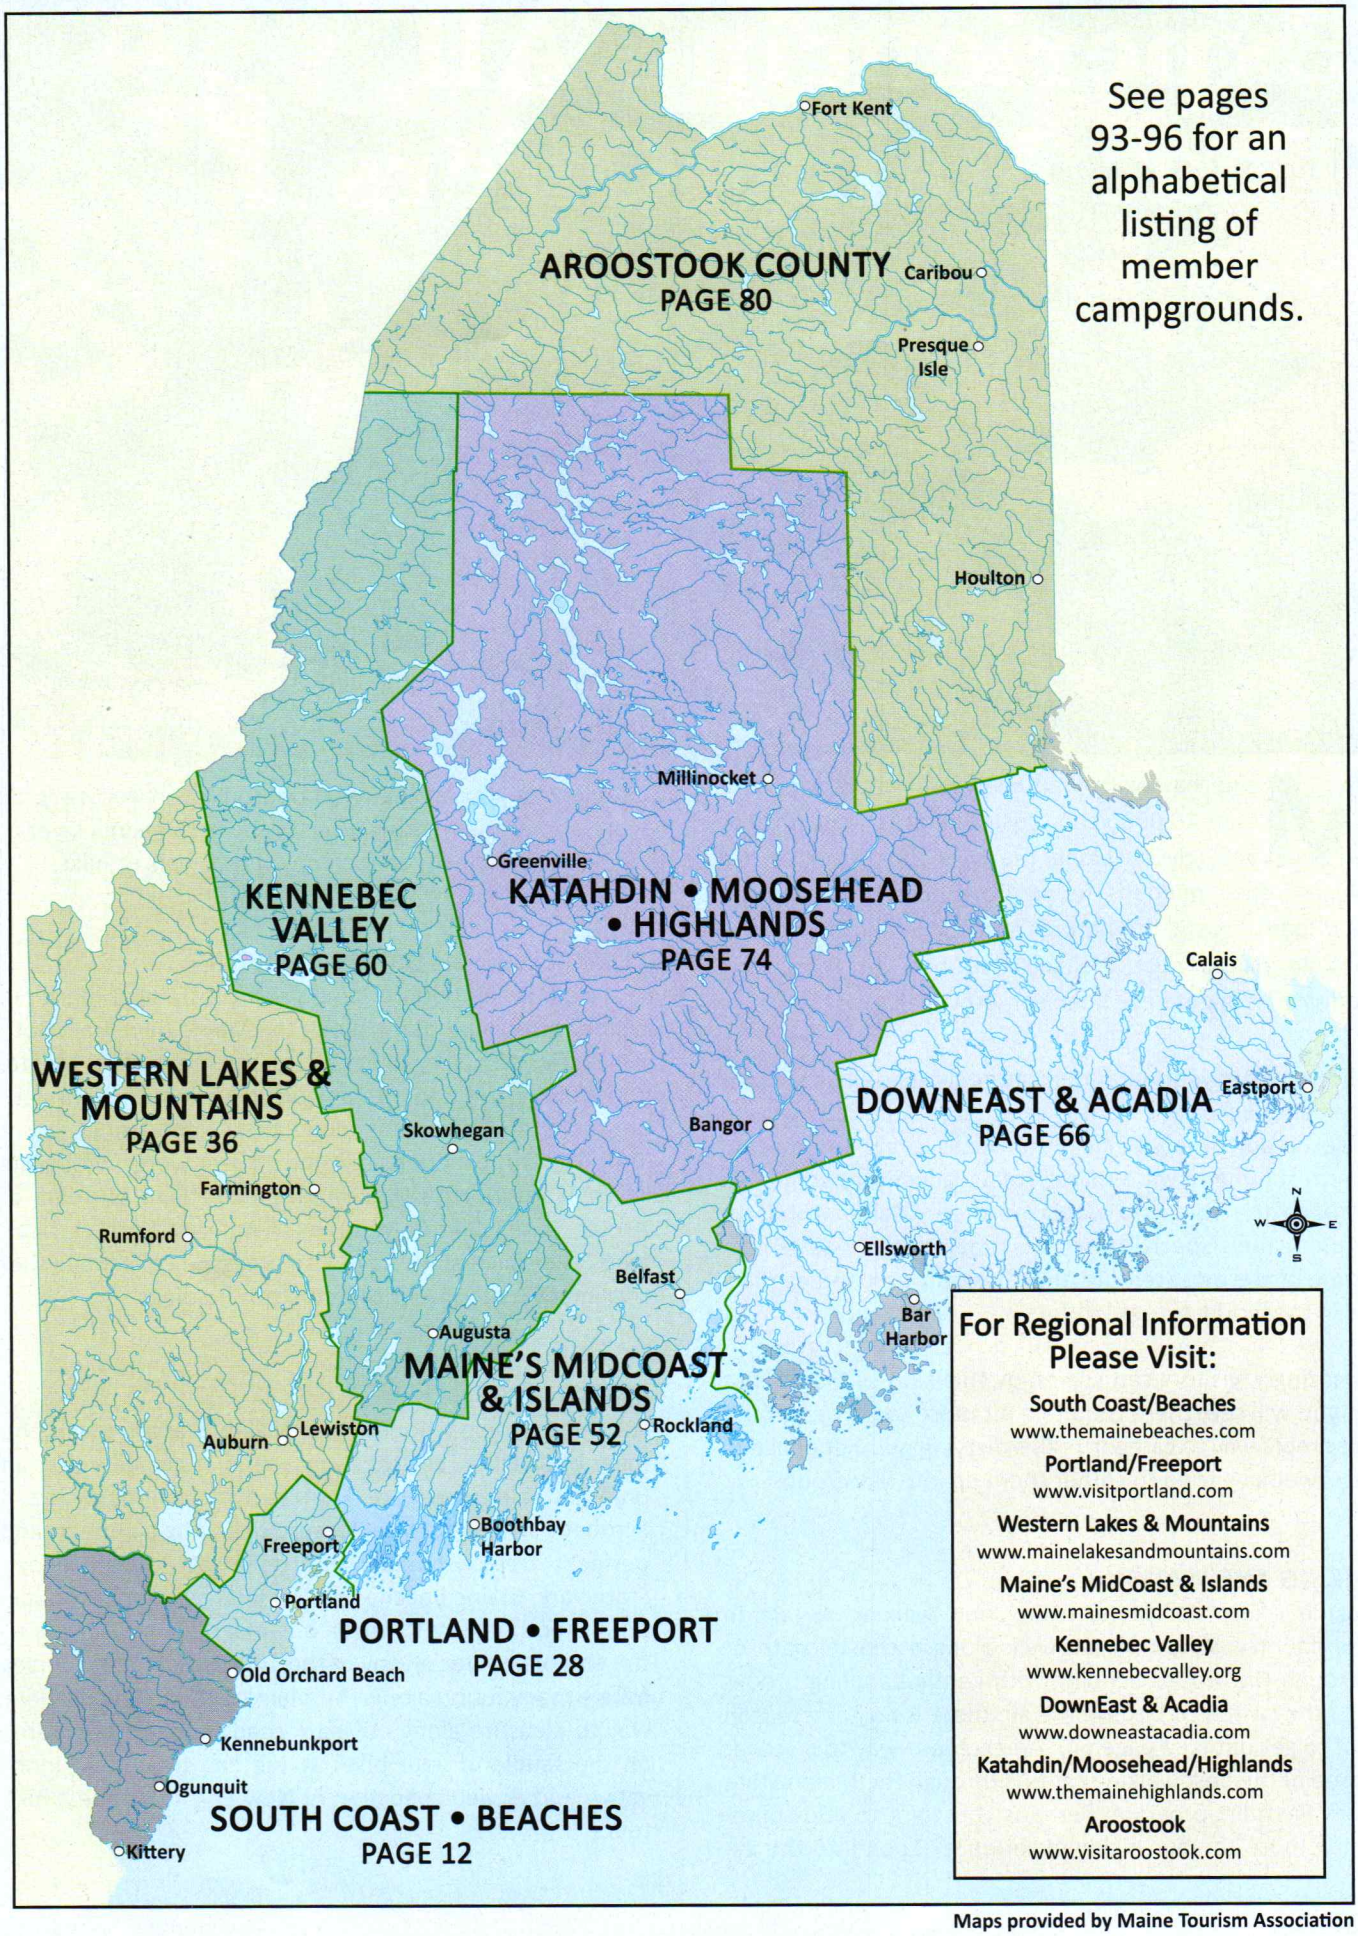
FINDING YOUR OWN WAY

The CampMaine Guide is divided into these eight regional designations to make it easy for you to find the activities and campgrounds that will best accommodate your camping style. Grids will indicate the services that are available at each of the CampMaine member locations as well as information on when member sites are open. Site availability information and fees are available directly from our members.



Maps provided by Maine Tourism Association

Experiencing All That Maine Offers

Maine has welcomed seasonal visitors for more than 10,000 years. Just look at the spectacular petroglyphs along the Kennebec River or the ancient shell middens found Down East or along the MidCoast. Was it the natural attraction man has always had to places near the sea that brought these first tourists? It might have been something else.

Thousands of years later rusticators came to Maine's summer enclave of Bar Harbor from large American coastal cities in pursuit of our beautiful vistas, briny breezes and warm summer days. Similarly, many adventure-some folk took to the wild and wooly northern Maine woods to explore their special charms – today the woods remain some of the most remote and physically demanding places in the world.

Amazingly, visitors can still enjoy this kind of Maine; but as you will see, there is quite a bit more to do here. With no simple way to categorize this dizzying number of activities, we have tried to gather them up into like groups.

HIKING AND WALKING

Maine offers the finest hiking and walking terrain in the country. Whether you walk along a coastal path or through the woods echoing with gently babbling brooks and the twitter of birds in the air, there is no good reason not to get out (see page 64). An excellent way to discover some of the best walking spots is through the Maine State Park Passport program. Perhaps you want to add something more to your hiking experience? Look into the excitement of geocaching (who doesn't love treasure?). Or learn about orienteering. Each of these can add a layer of fun to the simple joy that comes with a walk or hike.

CULTURAL & HISTORICAL ACTIVITIES

Learn a little bit about Maine's rich coastal and maritime history or sip a bit of fun along the Maine Beer Trail. Both will show you a very much active and real part of Maine. Our state is also home to a wide collection of cultural institutions and museums along the Maine Art Museum Trail. You can experience Maine's finest works with visits to The Farnsworth in Rockland, the Portland Museum of Art, or The Ogunquit Museum of American Art. Our colleges and universities have also amassed collections that rival many major American museum holdings.

SEASONAL FUN

For some people who return to Maine year after year, the miles of beaches, whether sugar-sand or gravelly, offer an unforgettable experience. From footprints in the sand and acrobatic seagulls to the pleasure of finding a perfect (and perfectly free) keepsake sand dollar at Popham Beach State Park, Maine beaches deliver bliss by the sandy bucketful. Another way to savor our magnificent vistas is at the end of a driver on any of the 100 or more golf courses here – many found along The Maine Golf Trail. Pedal your way to pleasure along our back roads and thoroughfares on the saddle of your bike. Maine has created an innovative and envied collection of New England's finest bike tours.

TOURISM
ASSOCIATION

What's Your Camping Style?

COPYRIGHT MAINE OFFICE OF TOURISM

It is with unabashed pride that for 80 years Maine – with its celebrated coastline and a ginormous (yes, it's a word) interior dotted and striped with lakes and rivers – has been able to call itself "Vacationland." A quick look will show that the best of the outdoors is offered here, and no matter the reason or the season, there will never be a shortage of outdoors to enjoy in Maine.

This reputation and unfettered access to the outdoors allow our collection of Maine campgrounds to offer every style of camping available today. And there are several. It simply depends on one thing: you and what you are looking to get out of your Maine camping experience. When beginning your search, it may be smart to start with a quick review of camping styles to see which suits your specific needs (or that of the group you are traveling with).

TENT CAMPING

It is rare to find a person who's camping experience does not include at least one or more nights in a tent. As a style of camping, it's all in the name: tent – a portable shelter made of cloth, supported by one or more poles and stretched tight by cords attached to pegs driven into the ground. Beyond the definition, the experience is up to the camper – from the simple functionality of tarp and rope setup to "glamping" (glamorous camping on page 48) with four-star amenities. Available options here range somewhere in the middle from wilderness camping (which we discuss on page 72) to the more common and highly popular car camping where you stuff everything you need for the trip into or onto your vehicle. Tent camping is an affordable, fun and uncomplicated way to enjoy all that camping has to offer. Nearly 170 MECOA members from all the Maine tourism regions offer tent camping.

FULL-SERVICE FAMILY CAMPGROUNDS & RV RESORTS

Looking for a campground that offers more options and amenities? This may be the style you are seeking. With more focus on the facilities and amenities of a camping trip, a full-service family campground or RV resort appeals to the camper who is interested in roughing-it, but with style. Here you'll find campers who bring their tent, pop-up campers, or hardtops. Resorts like this are quite popular with owners of larger recreational vehicles (RVs) and fifth wheels. This is a superb option for those who like to bring lots of gear or a fishing boat along on the trip. Full-service campgrounds are a great option for families because they often offer extra amenities such as a pool, game room, nighttime entertainment and other fee-based services. It is this kind of camping experience that is the primary focus of all our members.

CABIN, COTTAGE, ON-SITE RV RENTALS OR GLAMPING

Increasingly popular are cabin, cottage, on-site RV rentals, or glamping. This solution is ideal for the camper who has outgrown a tent, does not own an RV but still loves the great fun and camaraderie and sense of adventure that comes with camping and being outdoors. As a camper all you need to do is show up and unpack in your own personal vacation home. Typically, these accommodations require a little more lead-time when planning. Reservations are highly recommended. If you are interested in renting, it may even be wise to check out next year's offerings while camping this year. Over half of MECOA members from all the Maine tourism regions offer Cabin, Cottage, On-site RV Rental camping, or glamping. Campgrounds in Maine are no stranger to the Glamping experience. The word glamping is new along with the trend. We have long embraced rental units that do not involve sleeping in a tent on the ground or owning an RV. For more information on Glamping, turn to page 48.

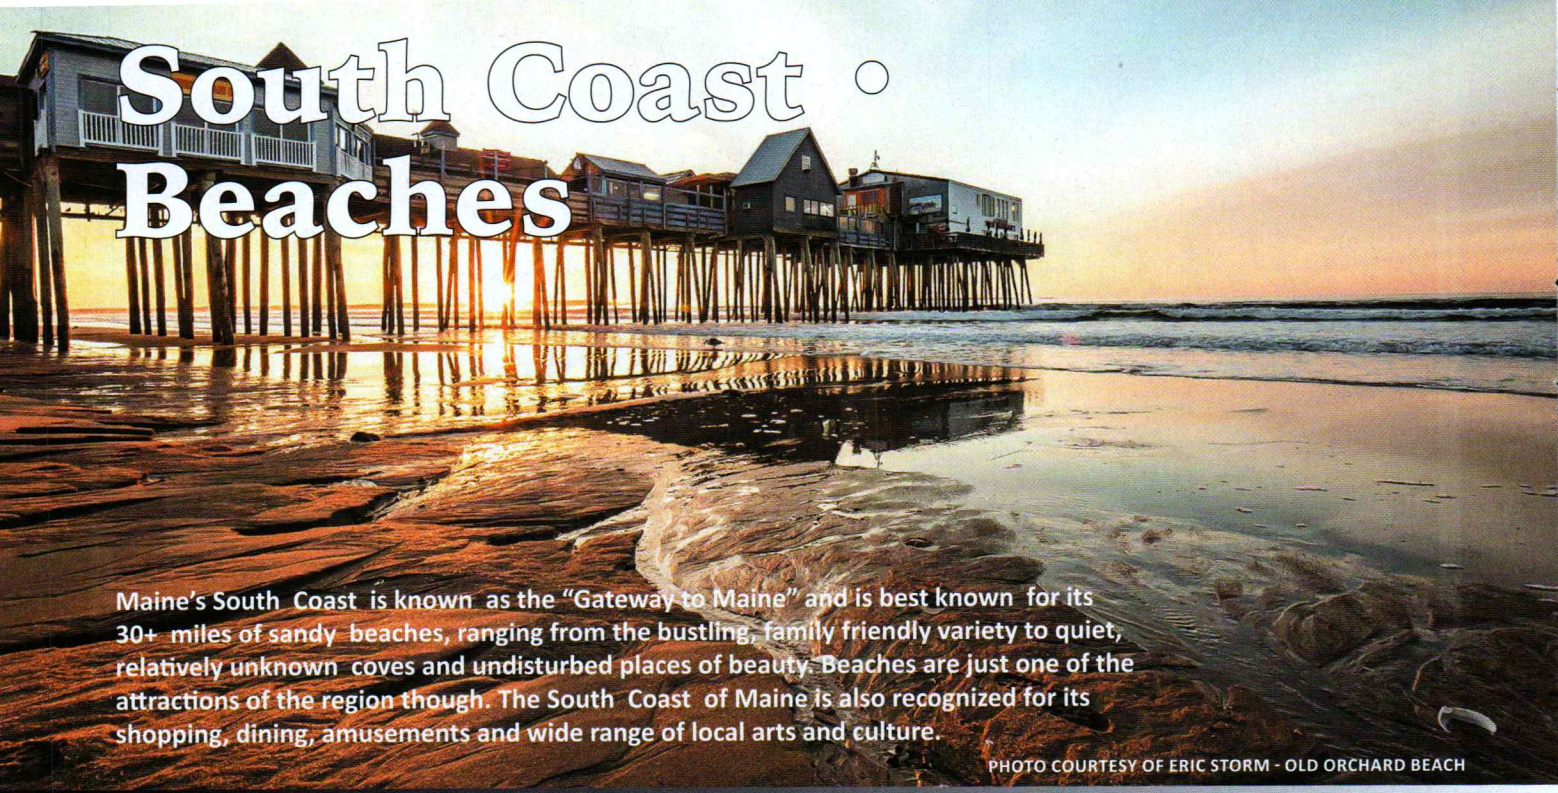
South Coast Beaches



Maine's South Coast is known as the "Gateway to Maine" and is best known for its 30+ miles of sandy beaches, ranging from the bustling, family friendly variety to quiet, relatively unknown coves and undisturbed places of beauty. Beaches are just one of the attractions of the region though. The South Coast of Maine is also recognized for its shopping, dining, amusements and wide range of local arts and culture.

Shopping in the Maine Beaches Region offers visitors a variety of options from the hundreds of stores that make up the Kittery Outlet Malls to the quiet downtown boutiques of Kennebunkport. It is also no wonder that the stretch of Route 1 running from York to Arundel is known as the Antique Mile with dozens of stores stock full of treasures just waiting to be discovered.

While visiting the Maine Beaches Region, guests are treated to a milieu of culinary choices. There is an abundance of traditional Maine seaside fare such as lobster in drawn butter or lobster rolls overflowing with chunks of tender meat. Diners can try international faire prepared by renowned chefs from all over the world, choose a down home meal cooked behind the counter or enjoy saltwater taffy, pizza and hand cut french fries while relaxing at the beach.

Kids of all ages will love the Maine Beaches Region amusements and midways around the area. Funtown/Splashtown, USA is home to the new Wild Mouse Roller Coaster and Palace Playland Amusement Park in Old Orchard Beach is the only remaining oceanfront midway in New England. Or head over to York's Wild Kingdom to visit animals from all over the world, including a rare White Bengal Tiger, and then take a ride on the original carousel in the amusement side of the park.

The fun doesn't stop when the sun sets in the Maine Beaches Region either! Home to the Ogunquit Playhouse, the Maine Beaches Region boasts Broadway quality shows starring well known actors and actresses like Sally Struthers and Lorenzo Lamas. Additionally, the area has a plethora of entertainment venues showcasing acts from acoustic performances and piano bars to high energy bands keeping the dance floors packed until last call. The Maine Beaches Region is also the perfect destination to visit galleries and art associations displaying the works of local, national and international artists.

As if there wasn't enough to do, the Maine Beaches Region, because of its natural beauty and preserved seaside environment, is a wonderful place for nature enthusiasts and recreationists. Whether hiking, sailing, biking or kayaking is your thing, the area provides the idea backdrop for your outdoor activities. Other activities and points of interest in the area include:

Camping Season Events in the Region:

June
- La Kermesse Franco-American Festival, Biddeford + Saco

July
- Independence Day Festivities: Fireworks, Waterski Show & Concerts, Sanford
- Summerfest & Fireworks, The Kennebunks

Camping in Maine during the summer months is a popular pastime for thousands of guests annually. Many campgrounds open early and close late, extending well beyond the reaches of the summer months. Why not enjoy Maine in the spring and fall? Many campgrounds and businesses alike are open for the season and anxious to welcome our state's visitors. Numerous campgrounds offer reduced off-season rates! Popular tourist areas and attractions are less crowded.

The spring months offer fresh vitality not only to nature, but to seasonal businesses and travelers alike. These beautiful weeks preceding the official start of summer offer campers an excellent opportunity to enjoy each day to its fullest.

Many of our state's guests leave for another year at the close of Labor Day weekend, missing the glorious fall months. When the crowds diminish, those who remain are at liberty to enjoy the sights and magnificent fall foliage. Barring local frosts, northern and northwestern portions of Maine are at their best during the last week in September. Eastern and central Maine follow suit during the first week in October; while the southern and coastal regions reach full color about the middle of October.

Maine is also home to over twenty Agricultural Fairs, the majority of which are held during the months of August and September, winding up with the famous Fryeburg Fair the first full week of October.

Attractions and Highlights of the Region:

• Maine's most photographed lighthouse, The Nubble—officially The Cape Neddick Lighthouse—sits on a small, rocky island about two miles north of the York River and York Harbor. #TheNubble-Lighthouse.

• The Old Orchard Beach Pier is a lively boardwalk that extends 500 feet into the ocean filled with all kinds of shopping, eating and entertainment venues.

• Ogunquit's Marginal Way is a breathtaking, not-to-be-missed 1.25 scenic mile walk along a quintessential Maine rocky.

• Walker's Point in Kennebunkport is the summer home of former U.S. President, George H. W. Bush. While not open to the public, the property is visible from both the shore and by boat.

• The Seashore Trolley Museum in Kennebunkport features the largest collection of public transportation vehicles in the U.S.

• Berwick was Maine's first permanent settlement, today The Counting House Museum of South Berwick holds an archive of the ephemera, photographs, and historic curiosities from this early Maine community.

• At 692 ft. (211 m) Mt. Agamenticus is not tall, but on a clear day you'll spot Boon Island to the east and Mt. Washington to the north. Also, enjoy the parks miles of shared trails over a total of 40,000 acres.

• The Rachel Carson National Wildlife Refuge in Wells (1966) protects valuable shoreline habitat for migratory birds and other wildlife. Visitors are welcome to enjoy excellent birding along the miles of trails through the marshes and many annual events,

• Explore Fort McClary in Kittery, which began as a simple 17th century military outpost grew to include many other structures including the Block House.

• Maine Audubon Society invites birders to visit the East Point Sanctuary in Biddeford Pool, which is perhaps New England's premier birding spot.

• The John Paul Jones Memorial in Kittery commemorates the site where in 1777 the U.S.S. Ranger was built and launched.

• The Old York Historical Society includes seven historic buildings dating back to the 18th century, including the Old Gaol, one of the oldest public buildings in the U.S. (1719)

• The Wells Auto Museum features more than 75 cars from 1900 to 1963, including gas, steam, and electric powered vehicles.

• The Brick Store Museum in Kennebunk offers an architectural walking tour along Main Street and "Sea Captain's Row." Visitors will view a variety of the 19th century architectural styles, both commercial and domestic.

• Goodall Park in Sanford, is home to the Sanford Mainers of the New England Collegiate Baseball League. The park opened in 1915 and has a seating capacity of 950. It is also home to a number of events including Sanford on Tap, a food truck and brew fest held each August.

WILDLIFE WATCHING

Maine sits in one of the most advantageous places on the East Coast for those who love to spot and keep track of wildlife, especially birders: Our northern forests welcome a great many kinds of rare arboreal species, and the Atlantic Flyway for migrating waterfowl intersects in a wide swath across the state. Then there are the bears, beavers, fox, and the beloved Maine moose. A wildlife safari led by a registered professional Maine Guide can offer lasting memories (and great photos, too). Those traveling to the coast are welcome to go whale watching or take a cruise to one of the few remaining coastal puffin colonies.

NATIONAL AND STATE PARKS

In 2014, Acadia National Park, the jewel of Mount Desert Island, was voted our nation's most popular national park, and what a treasure! At over 100 years old (the park was founded in July 1916), it continues to dazzle visitors with unlimited opportunities for outdoor recreation: hiking, climbing, biking, beach-combing, equestrian sports, photography, wildlife spotting, paddling, carriage rides, and of course camping. Not far away amid our immense and legendary forests sits Baxter State Park – home to hundreds of miles of trails, unmatched paddling and the extraordinarily historic and popular Mount Katahdin.

From coast to mountain and from border to border, Maine's Department of Parks and Lands has collected opportunities for the adventure-hungry visitor.

SIGHT SEEING

No less impressive are all the other ways to experience the views and vistas across Maine. Whether you like to experience the beauty and majesty of Maine from your vehicle or on foot, we are sincere in saying that your options are limitless. For the touring set, take a ride along our four National Scenic Byways (see page 88) or explore our extensive State Scenic Byway system. Take a trip to spot our many covered bridges and waterfalls. Visit some of Maine's historic lighthouses that line our shores (see page 34) and enjoy the view from where the raging sea meets the permanence of Maine's granite coast.

Looking for more: Cast off in style aboard a windjammer for a different view of our coastal harbors and islands. Pull on some yellow oilskins and climb aboard a lobster boat for a first mate's view of the Maine lobsterman's life.

For the more adventurous traveler, there are ways to see the state where the sky is, quite literally, the limit. From the gondola of a hot air balloon over the Androscoggin River or high above an Aroostook potato field, Maine takes on a completely different feel. Take a floatplane into the northern Maine woods where lakes become brilliant islands of blue in a vibrant sea of dark green.

HUNTING & FISHING

Looking for action? Join the long-standing tradition of the hunt in Maine.

We have excellent seasons for bear, upland birds, wild turkey, moose and white-tailed deer. Sure, many finest "secret" spots are passed down in families. But luckily we have the world's finest professional guides and sporting camps if you are looking to put together a hunting party.

The same might be said of fishing in Maine; happily though, fishing is mostly a year-round affair. Try spring fly-fishing along the lakes and streams that caress our western mountains around Rangeley, or test the waters of the northern Kennebec River valley. Make the pilgrimage to legendary places like Grand Lake Stream, or simply charter a summer drift boat trip for smallmouth bass on one of our broad cool lakes. Maybe a day of salty surf casting for mackerel or stripers along the MidCoast region sounds appealing, or a charter boat bound for the glory of sport fishing along the edge of Casco Bay might be what you need.

OUT ON THE WATER

Since we've been talking so much about being out on the water, let's spend some more time there. With so much water to enjoy in Maine, there isn't a water sport you can't try. Combine camping and kayaking out along the Maine Island Trail; it runs the entire length of the state. Cut through Penobscot Bay aboard a chartered yacht – many world-class sailors regard these waters as some of the world's best.

For those who love freshwater there is no lack of opportunity for you either. Give stand-up paddleboarding a try – it's a great way to explore the peaceful calm of a crystal-clear pond at dawn. Looking for bigger water? Sebago or the lakes around Monmouth or Belgrade might work, or maybe Moosehead (the state's biggest lake is a prime watercraft destination). Maine has numerous places to put in for a day of fun on the water. Just use your head and follow the rules, and you'll always be welcomed back.

Finally, for those looking for a more traditional paddling experience, we offer the sublime thrill of canoeing or kayaking. Look at the Northern Forest Canoe Trail for ideas, or paddle the "Moose River Bow Trip" or the Allagash River waterway (some say it's the last great wild river in America).

ACTIVITIES FOR THRILL SEEKERS

We've saved the best for last, well maybe. For those seeking the thrill of a lifetime, we have you covered. Start with white-water rafting on a choice of three rivers, each delivering daylong pulse-elevating rides from the controlled release of water from Maine's hydroelectric dams. Plan your schedule right, and you'll be rafting during a high-water turbine test where the thrills are doubled or tripled. The Kennebec (Class II-IV) and the Dead River (Class II-IV) offer a thrill that is just wild enough for almost any paddler, while the more technical Penobscot (Class III-V) is recommended for the slightly more experienced paddler. Once you are back on dry land, head off into the sunset atop an ATV. Maine offers thousands of miles of interconnected trails throughout the state, allowing you to head out on the trail, maybe even for days at a time. We've also been building a head of steam with our skydiving here.

Many companies now work in tandem with other adventure outfitters to offer affordable multi-sport packages for true adrenaline junkies. Yippee!

So there you have it! Maine has it all: from the tame to the borderline insane. And if you really want to, you can still sit in your chair enjoying the warm rays of the afternoon sun on your shoulders with an ice-cold glass of lemonade at hand. Whatever it is you want to do in Maine, there is a way and a place to enjoy our unlimited opportunities for recreation.

Seasonal Note: While camping runs from the warmer months between Memorial Day and Columbus Day (with some exceptions), you should come back to enjoy a Maine winter sometime.

THERE'S S'MORE TO CAMPING IN

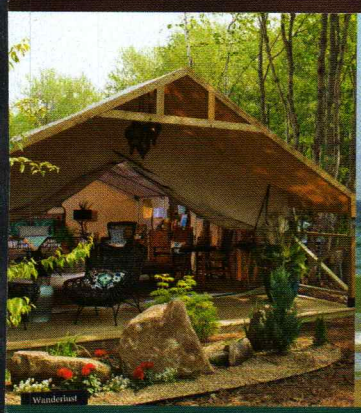
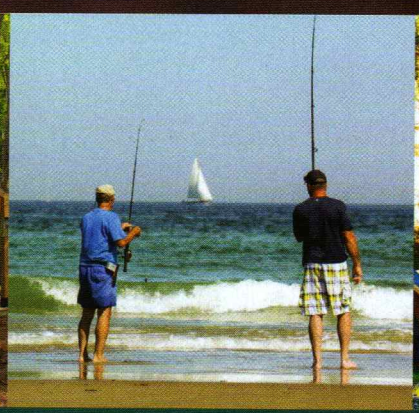
MAINE BEACHES





The campfire's crackle mingled with the sound of waves crashing on the beach. Days filled with sunny, blue skies are spent on the beach or exploring new favorite spots. These are the experiences that have brought campers back to Vacationland for generations. Choose from over 40 campgrounds offering everything from full-service family RV resorts and parks to private off-the-grid tenting, woodsy glamping, and cozy cabin sites.

What's Your Camping Style?

QUESTIONS & CONSIDERATIONS FOR CHOOSING THE RIGHT CAMPSITE

Once you have honed in on your own style of camping, there are a number of other pertinent questions to be considered. It is here where features like our regional grids and descriptions will offer the most help. Here are just a few questions that we suggest that future campers ask themselves as they make their plans, as every campground operates by different rules:

- Do I want to be on the coast, in the woods or lakeside?
- What will I want to do/what activities or attractions are nearby?
- How far ahead should I make a reservation?
- Am I planning on bringing my pet(s)?
- What kind of utilities/hookup services will I need?
- Am I expecting non-camping guests to visit during my stay?

NOW EXPLORE THE RESOURCES AVAILABLE TO YOU

The Maine Camping Guide with its regional grids and member ads will certainly help you decide where to camp in Maine. However, there are other trustworthy resources that you should consider as you make camping choices.

CampMaine.com: The website of the Maine Campground Owners Association should be your first stop to do a map-based or advanced keyword-driven search.

THE VACATIONLAND RV & CAMPING SHOW: We'd love to see you at the annual Maine RV Show put on by MECOA on April 10th & 11th, 2021 at the Norway Savings Bank Arena in Auburn. But if you can't make that one, do make time to get to an RV and Camping show in your home state. It will give you a real sense of the kinds of people and communities that make up camping. Shows also allow you to meet campground owners, ask questions, get brochures, get travel ideas and maybe even dream a little about an RV as you seek out and find the campgrounds that meet your needs.

CALL CAMPGROUND OWNERS: Don't be shy; they don't bite. Even if you are not quite ready to make a reservation or still have some questions, a conversation with a campground owner can be highly productive. In fact, campground owners love to talk about their campgrounds and the surrounding area. It also gives you the chance to request a brochure or get a website address so you can learn more. You'll likely be able to get a referral to another campground if there is no availability.

OTHER REFERRALS: Whether it comes through conversation with a friend, through candid but helpful strangers on review websites like Yelp or TripAdvisor, on a blog post or over Facebook, you'll find us at Facebook.com/CampingInMaine. The best advice often comes from others who have "been there and done that" and are willing to share their experiences, praise, cautionary tales and recommendations.

After all that, when you are making a decision on where to camp, trust your instincts! We think all of our members are great, but there is one out there that is perfect for you. So do your homework and then just make a decision and have a great camping trip whether it's your first or your 100th.

Portland boasts the cultural attractions of a much larger city while retaining a friendly, small-town atmosphere. The brick and cobblestone streets of the Old Port are lined with artisans' shops, galleries and boutiques, and fishermen still unload their catch on the working waterfront.

Whether you prefer the unique boutiques of the Old Port, or easy access to Maine's largest Mall with National stores, or a trip to Freeport to enjoy Maine's most famous outfitter L.L. Bean, the Greater Portland region has shopping opportunities for every taste.

Portland is home to spectator sports including hockey, baseball and basketball sports teams, a symphony orchestra, multiple theatre companies, and the Portland Museum of Art, one of the best art museums in New England.

The city has become a foodie destination with a wide range of culinary offerings, from the renowned lobster roll to fine dining. Maine chefs have earned accolades from James Beard to Maine Lobster Chef of the Year for innovative preparation of our fresh seafood, and locally procured produce. Harvest on the Harbor, Maine's Premier Food and Wine Experience, is the Greater Portland Convention & Visitors Bureau's toast to Maine's culinary arts. This three day event brings together local creative chefs, locally grown and harvested foods, and the excellence of Maine products - a perfect opportunity to experience the flavors of Maine, all on the magnificent coast during the beautiful harvest season.

Perfect for a family getaway Portland offers children an exploratory experience at the Children's Museum & Theatre of Maine and the Portland Observatory. Greater Portland is also home to four lighthouses, the most famous of these being the picturesque Portland Headlight and museum, commissioned in 1791 by George Washington.

Enjoy a day on Casco Bay visiting islands with the Casco Bay Ferries, relax on a traditional vintage schooner or windjammer, take a whale watch cruise or try hauling lobster in a real lobster boat - all from the center of downtown Portland.

- The Portland Museum of Art - Maine's largest art museum, featuring Maine works by Homer, Wyeth and Hartley. 775-6148

- The Children's Museum & Theatre of Maine - A state of-the-art, hands-on educational facility. 828-1234

- The Maine Narrow Gauge Railroad Museum - Discover the unique two foot gauge trains that linked rural Maine to the rest of the world. 828-0814

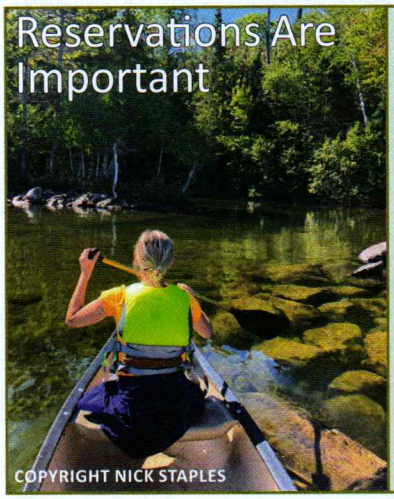
Reservations Are Important



Peak weeks in the summer are from the close of school until Labor Day. During this time most campgrounds encourage reservations and some have minimum requirements for holiday weekends and heavily booked vacation weeks. Although you may find a campsite available if you travel without reservations, we urge you to call ahead if you have certain dates and accommodations in mind. Be sure you understand reservation and refund policies for the campground. These are necessary so the campground can plan appropriately and facilitate other requests. We hope your visit will be pleasurable and that you will return again soon.

Since George Washington commissioned Portland Head (Cape Elizabeth, 1787), these protective shoreline beacons have guided sailors to safety and served as beloved points of interest for generations of visitors. From the Cape Neddick Nubble Light (York, 1879) to West Quoddy (Lubec, 1808) at the easternmost point in the U.S., Maine is home to 65 historic lighthouses.

It's no mystery that these colorfully named lighthouses like Burnt Island (Boothbay, 1821), Dice Head (Castine, 1829), Two Lights (Cape Elizabeth, 1828), and The Cuckholds (Boothbay, 1907), continue to generate lasting interest. Breakwater strolls: A brisk walk along a rocky breakwater is memorable and often breathtakingly beautiful. Spring Point Ledge (South Portland, 1897), Rockland Harbor Light (Rockland, 1902) and the tiny Bug Light (South Portland, 1875) are picturesque and iconic symbols of their place.

COASTAL BEAUTIES: Pemaquid Point (Bristol, 1835) graces the Maine state quarter, presiding over a time-worn spit of granite tumbling towards the Atlantic; bring a picnic and visit the museum and art gallery. If you find yourself Down East, head to Bass Harbor Head (Tremont on Mount Desert Island, 1858) and marvel at the ever-changing sea, sky and land.

TWO IF BY SEA: Monhegan Island (Monhegan Island, 1824) offers more than its lighthouse. The renowned artists colony offers endless adventure - ferries depart from Port Clyde, Boothbay or New Harbor. We also recommend the reservation-only tour of Wood Island Light (Biddeford Pool, 1808).

HONORABLE MENTION:
Spot the kindly, but gruff sea captain's ghost at Owl's Head (Owl's Head, 1826)
Visit Inland lighthouse Ladies Delight on Lake Cobbosseecontee (Winthrop, 1908)
Enjoy sleeping over at Goose Rocks (Biddeford, 1890) "Sparkplug Light"
Listen for the haunting player piano at Seguin Island Light (Georgetown, 1795)
Walk the rustic wooden gangplank leading to Marshall Point (Port Clyde, 1832)

OPEN LIGHTHOUSE DAY:
On September's Second Saturday, dozens of our beautifully maintained historic lighthouses are open to the public in celebration of the legacy of these coastal sentries. For more information on this event, and all of Maine's historic lighthouses, visit Lighthouse-Foundation.org

Western Lakes & Mountains

Maine's Western Lakes & Mountains Region is truly a four-season destination. Not only is the region close, its one hour from the Portland Jetport, it's also family-friendly, safe and affordable.

COPYRIGHT MAINE OFFICE OF TOURISM

The region is a study in contrasts, from the hustle bustle of Lewiston-Auburn to the rural Sebago Lakes area to the quiet serenity and winding back roads of quaint New England villages like Bethel, Norway, Farmington, and Rangeley.

Best known for its crystal clear lakes and rugged mountain ranges, the region also offers many outdoor activities including water sports, fishing, hiking, biking, golfing and skiing.

When it's time to relax and refuel, choose from many great restaurants in the area. You might enjoy a hand-crafted brew at a local pub, or a family outing to a home-made ice cream stand.

If you're looking for a unique experience, there are opportunities to enjoy a movie at the old time Bridgton Twin Drive-In Theatre or digging in quarries for gemstones and minerals such as amethysts, tourmaline, garnet and topaz. You might even try your hand at panning for gold.

The well-known Sebago Lake area is the hub for all kinds of recreational boating. Launch your own craft at several points around the lake or head to the Naples Causeway between Sebago and Long Lake to rent canoes, kayaks, wave runners, fishing boats or a large pontoon.

The hand-operated Songo Locks, the only one remaining from 27 locks built in the 1830s, makes it possible to see the entire 42-mile waterway encompassing Sebago Lake, Songo River, Brandy Pond and Long Lake.

Unlike many small towns with similar histories, the buildings of Norway have remained relatively intact. Listed on the National Register of Historic Places, Norway's bustling Main Street is characterized by unique, locally owned shops, restaurants, and other businesses housed in architecturally significant buildings from the early 1900s.

The quintessential and historic New England town of Bethel serves as an entry to the White Mountain National Forest, Grafton Notch State Park, and two of the finest covered bridges in Maine are found in South Andover and Newry.

Elsewhere, the Rangeley Lakes area is an authentic four-season recreational community. The area includes some of the best hunting and fishing in Maine, including more than 40 trout and salmon lakes and ponds. Incredible mountain views along the Carrabassett River, and unrivaled picnic spots such as Eustis Ridge can be found nearby at the Bigelow Mountain Range.

The commercial hub of the region, Lewiston-Auburn, originally came into its own in the mid-1800s when textiles and shoemaking were among the top industries of the day. Nowadays the twin cities are best known for the Great Falls Balloon Festival and several other festivals that highlight the area's renaissance. Lewiston- Auburn is also well known for the performing arts with performances at the Public Theatre, Community Little Theatre, Maine Music Society, and L/A Arts.

Franco Center for Heritage and Performing Arts hosts musical performances from world renowned pianists to symphony. And Museum L/A celebrates the industrial history of the area.

Naturally, no Maine region would be complete without a good old- fashioned country fair and Maine's Lakes and Mountains features three of the oldest and best—the Oxford County Fair in early September, the Farmington Fair in late September, and the Fryeburg Fair, Maine's largest agricultural fair, in early October.

While many visitors arrive in the Maine's Lakes and Mountains with the idea of spending most of their time in, on or near water, they soon discover there is much more to do.

Some of the region's most popular activities and attractions include:

- Rangeley Outdoor Sporting Heritage Museum, modeled after a 1900's taxidermy shop, is where Maine's rich outdoor sporting history, traditions and personalities come alive in Oquossoc, the heart of Maine's fishing and hunting since the mid 1800's.

- Maine Wildlife Park in Gray is home to over thirty species of native wildlife. You're guaranteed to see a moose!. Walk along nature trails and tour expansive gardens.

- The Stanley Museum in Kingfield celebrates F.E. and F.O. Stanley, the manufacturers of the Stanley Steamer automobiles, with displays of steam cars from 1905, 1910 and 1916. It also features the work of their sister Chansonetta, a well-known photographer of rural Maine.

- The Oxford Plains Speedway is ideal for those who enjoy NASCAR racing and is home each July to the "Oxford 250."

A Few Tips to Get Started

Are you a first time camper unsure of just where and how to begin? Whatever your age, interest or level of experience, this Guide is designed to get you started on years of successful camping excursions. Use it to contact campgrounds and plan care-free camping vacations.

First, decide what kind of camping experience you want: Back-to-nature, Outdoors sports oriented, Family oriented, Resort, Travel oriented, Long term/seasonal.

Secondly, consider possible destinations, whether city, quiet solitude, tourist attractions, shopping, natural landmarks, recreation areas or special events.

Third, use the Guide to locate campgrounds in the areas of your choice. Contact the individual campgrounds for details on their amenities, services and activities.

Visitors Fees

Most campgrounds will charge a fee when you have visitors at their properties. We ask that you consider the expense of operating a camping facility, including the cost of utilities, pools, restrooms, insurance, safety concerns and the overall added strain on the entire property when visitors are present. Most of the time pools, playgrounds and restrooms are available to visitors for only this modest visitor fee. So we hope you will understand that visitor fees are just the price of admission to the parks facilities.

Thank you!

MAINE WILDLIFE

Whether you are a Maine Native, or here just for a visit, you are more than likely aware that Maine has a wide variety of wildlife throughout the state. Here in the Pine Tree state, we are notorious for our wildlife, with over 55 species of wild mammals living among us - not including the fisheries or domestic mammals.

Maine's unique geographic location allows it to house a wide variety of animals. It has one of the highest moose and black bear populations throughout the "lower 48" states. Factor in the white-tailed deer population, and you have some of the top desired viewing and hunting mammals all in one place. The mammals can either gravitate towards a slightly colder climate towards Northern Maine, or to a slightly warmer climate towards Southern Maine.

Maine also boasts an abundance of sea-life and is a well-known fishing destination! The Department of Inland Fisheries & Wildlife strives to enhance, preserve, and protect, the sea-life while also maintaining diverse and sustainable fishery for all to enjoy.

GLAMPING
Nature Meets Glamour

Do you want to get outside into nature while maintaining modern amenities? Glamping may be just the experience for you. Glamping is widely available across the state of Maine in many different forms. Is glamping too glamorous a word for you? No worries, Maine offers many rental units in a campground setting.

The word glamping was added to the Oxford English Dictionary in 2016. Defined as a noun: A form of camping involving accommodation and facilities more luxurious than those associated with traditional camping.

Campgrounds in Maine are no stranger to the glamping experience. Traditionally we have offered rental units of varying types. The word glamping is new along with the trend. We have long embraced rental units that do not involve sleeping in a tent on the ground or owning an RV.

Each year demand for rentals is increasing, allowing the industry to provide a quality environment for the family to enjoy the outdoors. Families are realizing the value these rentals have and how they enhance the outdoor experience. It is also becoming popular for the individual that has to be away on business for a few days and wishes for an alternative to the motel experience. Campgrounds in Maine offer a variety of rentals including camper trailers onsite, tents on platforms, deluxe cabins and park models of varying sizes, lakeside houses, basic cabins and yurts. There is a type of rental for everyone at our campgrounds in Maine.

When is the last time you checked into a motel, had a nice campfire, cooked marshmallows and looked up to see the twinkling stars in our vast sky before retiring for the evening? Campgrounds in Maine offer it all, come relax and enjoy our variety of rentals available. Jump on the internet and head to www.CampMaine.com to explore your alternatives to a hotel room and partake in the camping experience.

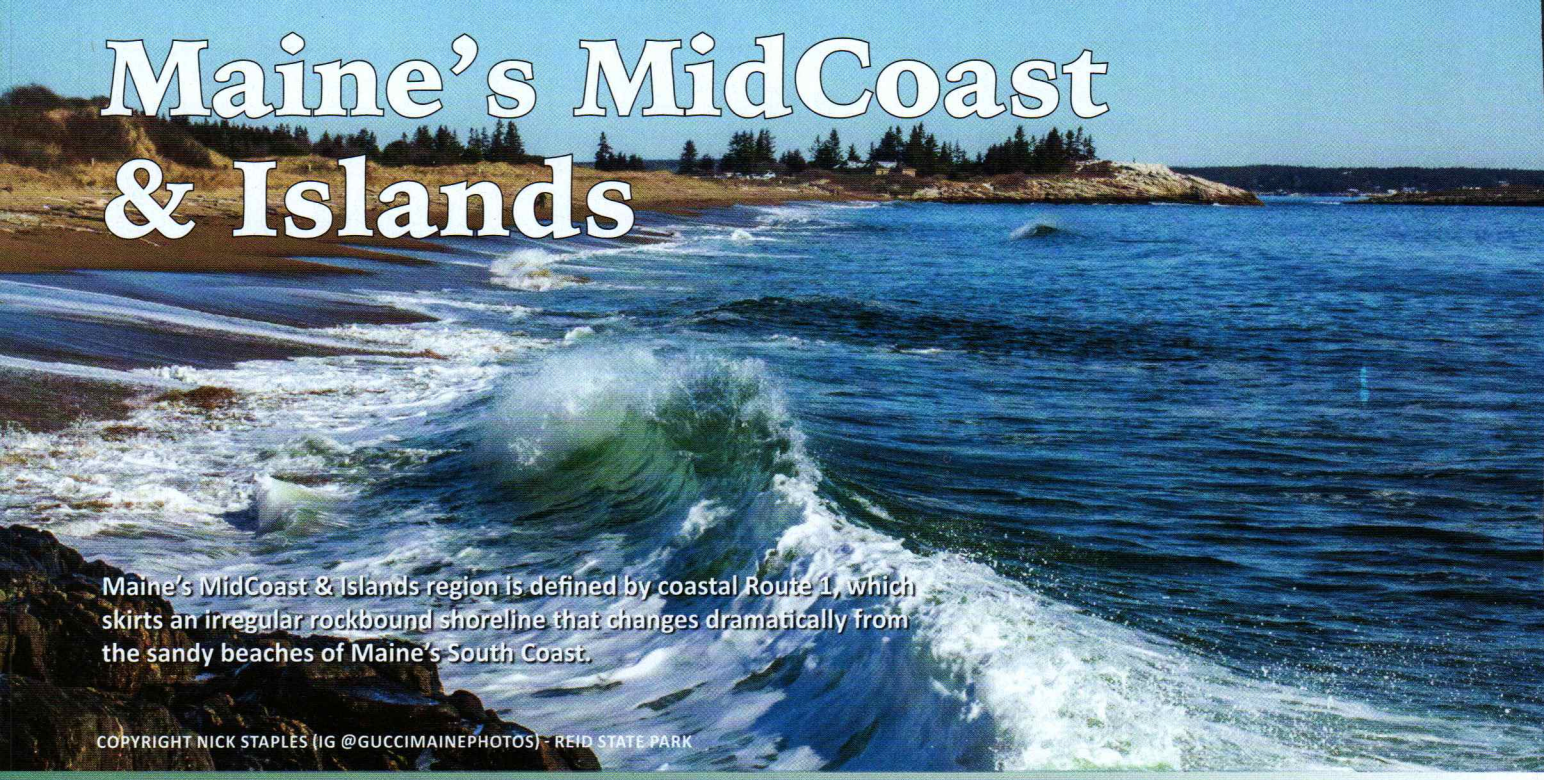
Maine's MidCoast & Islands



Maine's MidCoast & Islands region is defined by coastal Route 1, which skirts an irregular rockbound shoreline that changes dramatically from the sandy beaches of Maine's South Coast.

COPYRIGHT NICK STAPLES (IG @GUCCIMAINEPHOTOS) - REID STATE PARK

Much of Maine's maritime history is found in this region—from the historic and well-known Maine Maritime Museum in Bath to the finely restored row of Captains' homes along Route 1 in Searsport.

Of course, with the ocean so predominate, it's only natural much of the recreational activities in the region center on the sea—from puffin watching to whale watching, from deep-sea fishing to lobster bakes on remote islands.

Some of Maine's most famous "clam shacks" are also found here and, of course, lobster, fresh fish and 'chowdah' are always on the menu.

In addition, there are numerous fishing villages such as Camden, Boothbay Harbor, Five Islands, and Belfast where you can go right out on the pier and watch the lobster and the fish brought in daily. In fact, in many spots you can choose the lobster that looks just right for your evening meal.

Maine's MidCoast & Islands is also home to Maine's historic windjammer fleet and the schooners can be found nestled alongside lobster boats and pleasure crafts in both Rockland and Camden.

While Maine's MidCoast is known primarily for its rocky coast, some of the most beautiful and sandy beaches in Maine are found at Reid State Park in Georgetown and at Popham Beach. Reid State Park features nearly a mile and a half of sand beaches, dunes, marshes, ledges and ocean, plus a warm saltwater pond for swimming.

Not all activities are water-related, of course. There are art galleries galore throughout the MidCoast Region, and antique shops and small handcrafted jewelry and knick-knack stores are everywhere. There are flea markets and garage sales; there are auction barns and auction houses, and the region offers some of the most diverse, interesting and memorable art galleries in Maine.

Two of Maine's most famous festivals — Windjammer Days held each June in Boothbay Harbor, and Rockland's Lobster Festival held each August — are found in the MidCoast Region and there are numerous strawberry festivals, church suppers, bean hole suppers and chowder dinners to please even the most discerning of visitors.

While there is plenty to see and do here, most of the fun is exploring on your own. However, here are a few opportunities to get you started:

- The Theater Project in Brunswick is a great place to take children for a special afternoon or evening of theater. The 80-seat theater features "live" actors and plenty of fun.

- The Maine Maritime Museum in Bath includes indoor and outdoor exhibitions and features paintings, ship models, carvings, boats and other marine artifacts.

- Owls Head Transportation Museum includes a collection of historic aircraft, automobiles and engines. During the summer and fall, special exhibits are on display and include everything from WWI aircraft to early Corvettes.

• Eagle Island in South Harpswell is located about three miles off the coast. The summer home of North Pole explorer, Admiral Robert E. Peary, the island is equipped with a pier so visitation is possible for picnickers, nature enthusiasts and history buffs.

• The Woolwich Historical Society Museum depicts life as it was 80 to 200 years ago displayed in a farmhouse of the period and a post and beam barn.

• The Musical Wonder House in Wiscasset—which calls itself "Maine's Prettiest Village"— includes a collection of restored antique musical boxes, player pianos and related items displayed in fine period settings in an 1852 sea captain's mansion.

• The Boothbay Railroad Village is a great family spot. You can experience a steam train ride which includes a special treat known as 'Kissing Bridge,' and wends its way through a peaceful village and beautiful gardens. There is also an outstanding exhibit of more than 50 antique vehicles.

• Colonial Pemaquid is situated on a point of land at the mouth of the Pemaquid River in Bristol. Archeological excavations have unearthed 14 foundations of 17th- and 18th-century structures. Fort William Henry is adjacent to the settlement site.

• The Maine State Prison Showroom in Thomaston features furniture, novelty items of a nautical nature and ship models all hand made by inmates.

• The Farnsworth Art Museum in Rockland ranks among the finest regional art museums in the nation. The collection includes many works by the Wyeth family and other major American artists from Colonial times to the present.

• The Penobscot Marine Museum in Searsport is a village of eight buildings, and the finest collection of marine art in Maine.

• The Fort Knox State Historic Site in Stockton Springs is a splendid example of granite craftsmanship. Construction began in 1844 and continued for 25 years. The fort was built to protect the Penobscot River Valley, and the structure, including spiral staircases of granite, have remained in excellent shape for more than a century.

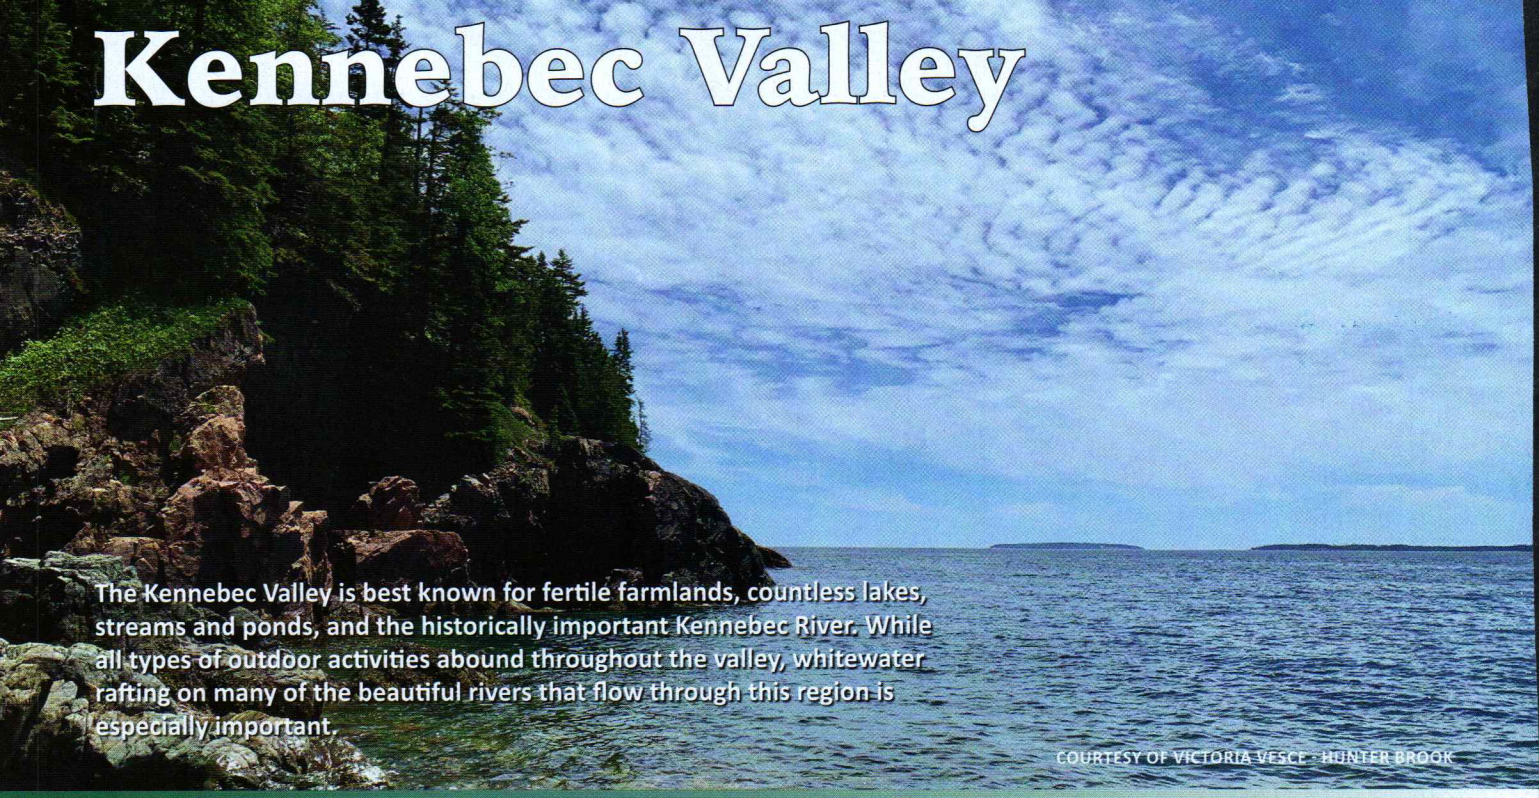
Kennebec Valley



The Kennebec Valley is best known for fertile farmlands, countless lakes, streams and ponds, and the historically important Kennebec River. While all types of outdoor activities abound throughout the valley, whitewater rafting on many of the beautiful rivers that flow through this region is especially important.

While the Kennebec Valley contains some of Maine's largest cities — Waterville, Skowhegan and Augusta — it is best known for its rolling countryside and quiet, old-fashioned villages that define the Winthrop, China and Belgrade lakes area and other towns to the north.

Families are especially attracted to this region because of the many opportunities to fish, canoe, hike or bike. Sightseeing, a major item on most people's agenda, as well as antique hunting, shopping at the numerous vegetable stands and garage sales are found on many of the area's back roads.

State fairs are a staple of the region and one of the largest is the Skowhegan State Fair in August. It is the oldest continuously operating state fair in the country.

History also plays an important role in the Kennebec Valley. For instance, Maine's capital city — Augusta — while the second smallest in the United States (only Montpelier, Vermont, has fewer residents) — offers tours of several museums, historic homes and the oldest surviving wooden fort in New England.

Speaking of history, Gardiner and Hallowell are quaint river towns now considered antique centers. Both feature brick sidewalks and turn-of-the-century lampposts that remind visitors of a bygone era and invite them to sample several interesting restaurants, boutiques and art galleries.

In addition, a major roadway — Route 201 — follows the trail Benedict Arnold took during his march to Quebec in 1775. A beautiful ride, especially during the late summer and early fall, 201 will take you to the northern portion of this region, which is mostly owned by the paper companies that manage Maine's huge forest industry.

Once there, you'll discover The Forks, a major outdoor and whitewater rafting area lying at the confluence of the Dead River from the west and the Kennebec River from the east. More than a dozen whitewater rafting outfits are now housed in The Forks.

Route 201 then pushes north to the Canadian border at Jackman — a four-season recreational area heavily involved in whitewater rafting, rock climbing, hiking and mountain biking.

There are several things to see and places to visit in this region. They include:

Camping Season Events in the Region:

June

- Greater Gardiner River Festival, Gardiner
- Blistered Fingers Family Bluegrass Festival, Litchfield
- Whatever Family Festival, Augusta, Hallowell, Gardiner

July

- 4th of July Family Fun Day, Jackman
- Central Maine Egg Festival, Pittsfield

August

- Skowhegan River Fest, Skowhegan

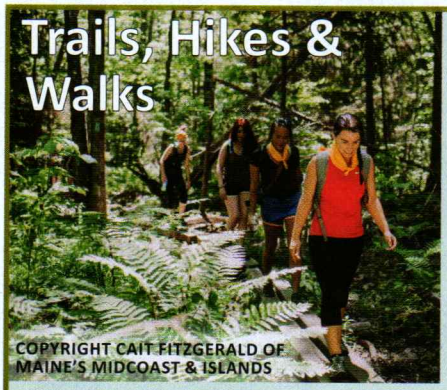
Trails, Hikes & Walks



COPYRIGHT CAIT FITZGERALD OF MAINE'S MIDCOAST & ISLANDS

By name of its sheer size and geographic variation, Maine offers an unlimited supply of short walks, trails and day hikes, many more than could be explored in a lifetime. Assembled here is a collection of nearly 30 of Maine's best, most accessible trails and walks categorized by a range of interests. Many are certain to be located only a short distance from your campground.

We encourage Maine hikers to "Be Prepared" for our rapidly changing weather and the possibilities of biting insects and poisonivy along the way. Please abide by the "Leave No Trace" philosophy, and plan to bring water and a snack.

To read more about these hikes or find others, we enthusiastically recommend MaineTrailfinder.com.

Key: Each listed excursion provides the name of the nearest city or town and arange of difficulty. All distances are listed in miles, and when available, distances are labeled as one-way (ow), round-trip (rt), loop, or as total combined distance for a network of trails.

COASTAL AND SHORELINE HIKES

Marginal Way Ogunquit, easy, 1.25 mi: One of Maine's most popular coastline walks, Marginal Way offers unmatched sea and land views at every turn. Take a rest and enjoy the views from the many beaches, or bring a picnic and make a day of it.

The Bold Coast Cutler, easy to moderate 5.8mi

Beech Hill Preserve Rockport, easy, 2.2mi

The Parsons Way Kennebunkport, easy, 2.0 mi

CITY WALKS

Back Cove Trail Portland, easy 4.2mi loop. The skyline of Portland serves as a spectacular backdrop for this easy and mostly paved loop around the city's tidal Back Cove and its surrounding neighborhoods. Perfect for a sunset stroll or early morning pick-me-up walk.

OTHER CITY WALKS

Vaughan Woods (aka Hobbitland) Hallowell, easy, 3.0 mi network

Bangor City Forest Bangor, easy to moderate, 9.0 mi network

Lewiston-Auburn Riverwalk, easy, 2.0 mi, network

WATERFALL HIKES

Moxie Falls The Forks, easy, 1.2 mi, rte: This smooth and beautiful walk form a well-marked trailhead takes you to Maine's tallest single-drop waterfall. Look for swimming and fishing holes 100ft further downstream. A great add-on excursion to white-water rafting, ATV adventure or moose safari.

OTHER WATERFALL HIKES

Jewell Falls Portland, easy to moderate 2.0 mi network

Angel Falls Township D, easy to moderate 1.4 mi

Rattlesnake Flume and Pool Stoneham, easy to moderate, 2.2 mi

WILDLIFE TRAILS

Aroostook National Wildlife Refuge Caribou, easy, 5.7 mi, network. These well-maintained trails provide hikers with ideal conditions for spotting diverse species including moose, bear, beaver and migratory birds.

OTHER WILDLIFE TRAILS

Rachel Carson Wildlife Refuge Wells, easy, 1.8 mi, loop

NATIONAL & STATE PARK WALKS

Acadia National Park, easy, 4.0 mi, rte. Once you have explored the bald summit of Caddilac Mountain, make time to walk the Ocean Path from Sand Beach past Thunder Hole and on to Otter Point; the dramatic coastline offers many of Maine's most recognizable vistas.

OTHER MAINE STATE PARK WALKS:

Wolfe's Neck State Park Freeport, easy to moderate, 4.4 mi, network

Ferry Beach State Park Saco, easy, 1.4 mi, network

APPALACHIAN TRAIL HIKES

Grafton Notch Loop Trail at Baldpate Mountain Newry, advanced, 8.0 mi. A well-marked and popular two-summit hike offering a strenuous full day's hike.

OTHER APPALACHIAN TRAIL HIKES

The Hunt Trail to Katahdin's Summit Millinocket, moderate to advanced, 9.3 mi, rte.

Pleasant Pond Mountain Caratunk, moderate to advanced, 3.2 mi, rte.

MOUNTAIN HIKES

Mount Kineo Mossehead Lake, moderate to advanced, 4.0 mi, rte. Take the short boat ride for a small fee from Rockwood and then head out and enjoy the grand vistas from this historically significant glacial formation. Considered the most challenging, Indian Trail offers the finest views along an open ledge.

OTHER MOUNTAIN HIKES

Bradbury Mountain State Park Freeport, 21.5 mi, network

Borestone Mountain Elliotsville Twp, moderate to advanced, 3.6 mi, ow

Tumbledown Mountain Weld, moderate to advanced, 10.6 mi, network

Douglas Mountain Sebago, moderate to advanced, 2.8 mi, network

HISTORIC HIKES

Popham Beach State Park Phippsburg, easy, 2.5 mi, rte. An absolute must for visiting history buffs and beach walkers alike. Fort Popham, Fort Baldwin and Fort St. George (the last of which is the known archeological site of the 1607 colony) are all easily accessed on myriad trails or along the beach. Fort Baldwin offers stunning views, and Fort Popham begs exploration of its forbidding granite facade.

OTHER HISTORIC HIKES:

Sebago Lake State Park Naples, easy to moderate, 5.8 mi

Fort Williams Cape Elizabeth easy, 0.04 mi

Bethel Village History Walk Bethel, easy, 1.9 mi

Attractions & Highlights of the Region:

- The Maine State Museum in Augusta houses the "story" of Maine as told by it's historic artifacts and art. The museum, a cache of Native American artwork and great repository of Maine's industrial past also houses a working three-story watermill transported to and rebuilt inside the museum.

- With a single drop of nearly 100 feet (one of Maine's largest) Moxie Falls in The Forks is a must visit Kennebec Valley attraction. The easy round-trip hike to the falls is just over a mile on a wide and well-kept trail located two miles east of US 201 in The Forks.

- Catch a matinee at Lakewood Theatre, America's longest running "summerstock" program in Madison since 1901. Each summer comes with a new slate of performances including special performances for children. The region is also home to Maine's Official Shakespeare Theater at the Theater at Monmouth.

- Old Fort Western in Augusta is New England's oldest surviving wooden fort and block house. Interpretive educators tell the story of this 18th century military, settlement, trade and family life in the original main house built in 1754.

- As you pass through Skowhegan, stop in and check out the towns collection of artist Bernhard Langlais' work including the artist's late 1960's gift to the town a 62-foot tall sculpture of a native American atop a 20-foot concrete base. Recently restored, the Skowhegan Indian is the world's tallest, and a celebration of the important contributions of native American culture in the region given by the artist on the 150th Anniversary of Maine's statehood.

- Keep your eyes peeled for this ever-growing collection of colorful and somewhat mysterious birdhouses located on the east side of the Old Canada Scenic Byway as you head north above Wyman Lake in Moscow.

- Arnold's Landing in Solon is the site of one of the Kennebec River encampments of the failed march on Quebec led by revolutionary war hero turned traitor Benedict Arnold's troops.

- The amazingly restored theater at the Waterville Opera House welcomes local and national and international touring acts to the stage. It is also one of the key venues for the Maine International Film Festival.

- The Alfond-Lunder Pavilion at Colby College Museum of Art in Waterville added over 10,000 square feet of gallery space to the museum when it opened in 2013, a fitting home to the world's foremost collection of American art spanning three centuries.

- The State House in Augusta was designed by noted Boston architect Charles Bulfinch and built in 1829.

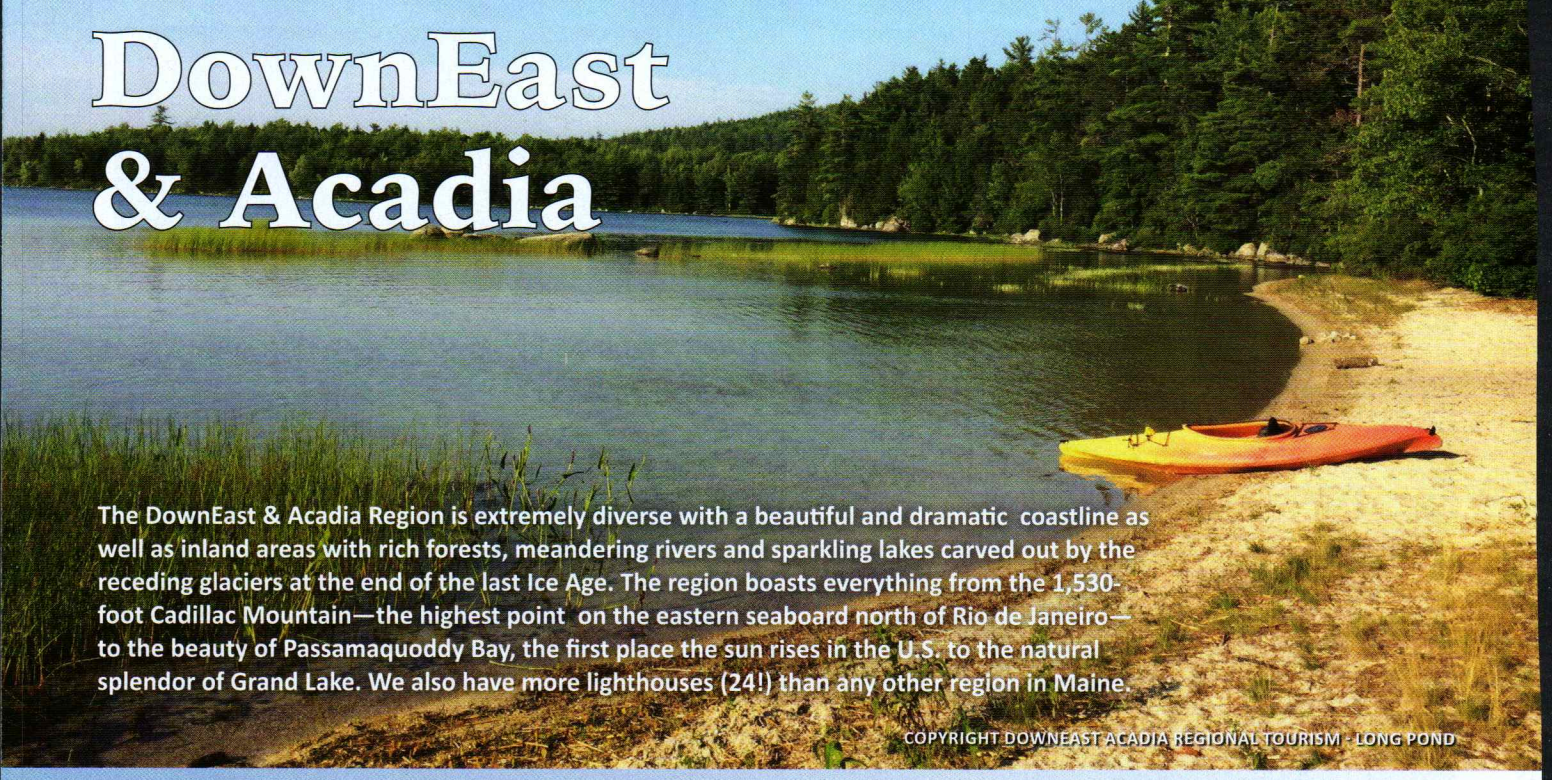
DownEast & Acadia



The DownEast & Acadia Region is extremely diverse with a beautiful and dramatic coastline as well as inland areas with rich forests, meandering rivers and sparkling lakes carved out by the receding glaciers at the end of the last Ice Age. The region boasts everything from the 1,530-foot Cadillac Mountain—the highest point on the eastern seaboard north of Rio de Janeiro—to the beauty of Passamaquoddy Bay, the first place the sun rises in the U.S. to the natural splendor of Grand Lake. We also have more lighthouses (24!) than any other region in Maine.

COPYRIGHT DOWNEAST ACADIA REGIONAL TOURISM - LONG POND

Seafaring traditions and culture are still thriving in many of the coastal towns and villages. Whale watching, hiking, biking, kayaking, canoeing and fishing are all part of what make the DownEast & Acadia Region special and our history is preserved through our historic homes, museums and historical societies.

As you enter the region from the west, you will cross over the brand new Penobscot Narrows Bridge. This engineering marvel also boasts an observatory, over 400 feet high, from which you can see the entire region. Accessible from Fort Knox, you will not want to miss the view from the top. After you cross the bridge, you will enter the town of Bucksport. Folklore buffs might want to stop at the historic cemetery in town to see the grave of Jonathan Buck, with the footprint of a witch on his stone.

The Blue Hill Peninsula is an area rich in beauty and renowned for its artist community and its rich maritime history. The town of Castine, home to the Maine Maritime Academy, is one of Maine's historic jewels. Nearby is a half-mile-long suspension bridge spanning Eggemoggin Reach to Deer Isle and Stonington, one of Maine's liveliest lobster towns. You will also want to visit Blue Hill itself with its small town charm and lovely shops and galleries.

Further to the west is Ellsworth. The shops and restaurants in Ellsworth's quaint downtown are delightful for an afternoon stroll or to have a delicious dining experience. If you enjoy theater, you may want to check out the performances at the restored Grand Theater right on Main Street.

No Maine destination is as well known or visited as Acadia National Park on Mt. Desert Island. The second most visited national park in the United States, Acadia is an impressive 35,000 acres in area and includes 41 miles of spectacular coastline. Visitors to the park will want to experience the carriage trails, maybe including a stop for popovers and tea in the afternoon. The Park Loop Road is the link to many of the interesting sites located within the park, including Sand Beach and Thunder Hole, a tidal cavern that allows trapped water to create booming water spouts that shoot up to 40 feet in the air. Explore the entire island. Discover Bar Harbor, with its shops, museums, and restaurants, as well as quaint towns such as Northeast Harbor, Southwest Harbor and Tremont. You might also like to visit the Schoodic Point and Isle au Haut, two areas of the park not located on Mount Desert Island.

Heading further downeast from Mount Desert Island, you will find the Schoodic Peninsula with its towns of Gouldsboro and Winter Harbor. To the east, explore Milbridge, Harrington and Columbia Falls, quaint villages with rich histories. Or visit Cherryfield's National Register Historic District with its 52 architecturally significant buildings from the 1800s.

Nature is also allowed to take center stage here as the land bears native wild blueberries (80 percent of the nation's wild blueberry crops are raised here) and virgin timber, and the earth sustains an amazing range of wildlife, from moose and deer to eagles and puffins. Numerous quiet trails and treelined lanes often lead to unmatched ocean views, and coastal communities such as Jonesport and Jonesboro offer visitors the opportunity to visit typical fishing piers, nature preserves and even a shellfish hatchery or two. If you love lobster, Jonesport and Beal's Island are not to be missed.

Situated between the ocean and wide, flat wild blueberry barrens to the north, Machias is the centerpiece of Washington County's tens of thousands of acres of wild lands and celebrates the blueberry harvest each year in August. Incorporated in 1763, the village's history goes back centuries. It was here, near Fort O'Brien, that the first naval battle of the Revolutionary War took place even before the Battle of Bunker Hill in 1775. Machias is also the commercial hub of Washington County and the wreath making center of Maine.

The first place in America to see the sunrise is the Way DownEast Region. The area is ideal for bird watching and moose spotting and you won't want to miss a visit to Quoddy Head State Park and the candystriped lighthouse on the easternmost point of the U.S. Or cross the bridge into Canada (don't forget your passport or passport card!) and spend the day visiting FDR's summer home and grounds on Campobello Island.

Continuing along Route One, another interesting attraction is a granite monument on the road between the coastal communities of Lubec and Eastport. Placed at the site of the Reversing Falls Park by the National Geographic Society, the monument marks the 45th parallel, the exact midpoint between the equator and the North Pole. Take your picture standing in the middle of the Northern Hemisphere!

Eastport is a thriving community with shops, historic sites and wonderful restaurants. It's also a great place to take a whale watching cruise and see whales, porpoises, eagles and nature at its most pristine.

Maine's National Treasure

Most know that Maine is referred to as "Vacationland", but did you also know that it is home to what is referred to as a "National Treasure"? Yep, you guessed it. Acadia National Park, located in the DownEast & Acadia region, is the second most visited national park in the United States.

Acadia National Park boasts multiple locations that draw in a wide variety of visitors throughout the Spring, Summer and Fall months. From campers, hikers, photographers, beach goers, and your everyday tourists, there truly is something for everyone in the DownEast & Acadia region. Many visit the little, but popular, Sand Beach. At 290 yards long, it is accessed through Park Loop Road – a common stop for Photographers. The beach is nestled between the headland called Great Head, and the treacherously known "Beehive Trail". Other widely known mountains that provide hiking trails of all types are Cadillac Mountain, Jordan Pond Loop, Ocean Road Path, and South Bubble Mountain. Bar Harbor, home of Acadia National Park, has numerous campgrounds where campers, like yourself, are guaranteed to find one that suits all types of preferences.

Visit CampMaine.com to find your campground now, and DownEastAcadia.com for more information on the beautiful, Acadia National Park.

Calais, the largest community in the region, was settled in 1770 and is home to the St. Croix Island International Historic Site. There, in 1604, Sieur de Mons and Samuel Champlain settled with about 80 others, making it the first permanent French settlement in the New World.

Make sure to stop en route to visit the St. Croix Island International Historic Site overlooking the site of that settlement.

If you enjoy hunting and fishing you won't want to miss a visit to Grand Lake Stream. It is world famous for excellent fly fishing and there are Registered Maine Guides who can take you to the best spots.

Camping Season Events in the Region:

June

- Bay of Fundy International Marathon, Lubec & Campobello Island
- Lupine Festival, Deer Isle

July

- Bar Harbor Music Festival, Bar Harbor
- Schoodic Arts Festival, Winter Harbor (August, too)
- Puckerbrush Primitive Gathering, Columbia
- Bucksport Bay Festival, Bucksport

August

- Indian Day, Pleasant Point Reservation near Eastport
- International Festival, Calais
- Winter Harbor Lobster Festival
- Wild Blueberry Festival, Machias
- Folk Art Festival, Grand Lake Stream
- Bar Harbor Jazz Festival, Bar Harbor

September

- Maine Open Lighthouse Day, Regionwide
- Blue Hill Fair, Blue Hill
- Salmon & Seafood Festival, Eastport
- Pirate Festival, Eastport
- Acadia Night Sky Festival, Mount Desert Island
- Autumn Gold Days, Ellsworth

Attractions and Highlights of the Region:

- The Abbe Museum in Bar Harbor features Maine Native American archaeology, history, and culture.
- Whimsical and amazing examples of Maine wildlife taxidermy completed by College of the Atlantic students are on display on campus at the Natural History Museum.
- Visit the Wendell Gilley Museum of Bird Carving in Southwest Harbor to see beautifully carved examples of waterfowl in miniature, life-size owls, and quite a bit more.
- The Mt. Desert Oceanarium allows a close-up view of coastal Maine below the surface, plus a hands-on "Touch Tank" and a lobster hatchery.
- Machias' Burnham Tavern, now a museum, was built in 1770, making it the oldest building in eastern Maine; in addition, the first naval battle of the Revolutionary War was planned in the community watering hole.

Maine Wilderness Camping Takes Moxie

In its purest form, a wilderness camping expedition will take you into a wild, uncultivated place uninhabited by humans. With over 200,000 acres in Baxter State Park, nearly 600,000 acres of Public Reserved Lands and over 3.5 million acres in our North Maine Woods, there are a great number of places that make the cut when it comes to that description.

The Allagash Wilderness Waterway, a densely forested and deeply beautiful part of our Maine woods that cuts through the central swath of our state, is considered by many to be one of the last remaining wilderness places in the East. Then there are the Mahoosucs, the Bigelow Range, and the unforgettable 100-Mile-Wilderness.

These are the places that require grit and determination simply just to get to – that and a lot of dry socks, too – quiet and beautiful places that show the night sky painted in a broad-speckled swath of thousands of stars of all colors, with some nights sharing the eerie hues of the Northern Lights.

Some Tips: A few simple tips for those both willing and brave enough to make an adventure into the wilderness would include: Never travel alone and, if possible, travel with someone experienced in backwoods camping. Be prepared (which includes traveling with a self-rescue kit), remember to keep your food out of reach of forest critters at night, travel light and carry out what you carry in.

Resources: Maine's Department of Agriculture, Conservation & Forestry offers an excellent resource for anyone looking to take advantage of Maine's Public Reserved Lands for back country hiking, paddling, and camping: bit.ly/Maine_BackcountryCamping

North Maine Woods is an organization that oversees the management and access to Maine's most remote place: NorthMaineWoods.org

Baxter State Park is the crown jewel of our state park system, home to Mt. Katahdin and the eastern terminus of the Appalachian Trail. BaxterStatePark.org

These seemingly faraway places are filled with abundance reflective of our state's vast natural resources with each trail another reason to return. Those who are interested should put aside the tablet computer and shut down the phone, because a journey into Maine backcountry allows you to connect in an entirely different way.

DIGGING CLAMS in Downeast Maine

– By Crystal Hitchings

I love mud between my toes on a summer day, at the edge of the sea, pants rolled above the knees, up to the elbows and ankles in mud. Clams for supper! Imagine stoking coals at a beachside fire, seaweed wrapped around fresh-dug clams, steaming up a scent of toasted ocean as a rising tide slowly swallows your footprints in the mud flats.

Most people wear rubber gloves and boots and dig clams with a 4-tined rake called a hoe. My father used one of these, and a wooden slatted basket called a roller. Digging clams was his main income during good weather, along with raking blueberries.

We ate a lot of clams in the 1970's, when they were a lot more plentiful. Clam landings drastically declined across Maine in the 1980's, especially along the Bold Coast. Today, the clamming industry is kept alive by the careful management of coastal Maine communities, including the seeding of clams to enhance wild stocks.

The Downeast Institute for Applied Marine Research & Education, located on Beal's Island, raises between three and five million seed clams annually for 60 Maine communities. The Downeast Institute offers guided tours of their shellfish nursery. More information is available at www.downeastinstitute.org.

Clams are a longtime staple to the Downeast region's peoples. Shell heaps from native settlements are scattered along the coast, including at Machias, Passamaquoddy, Cobscook, and Frenchman Bays, and at Bar Harbor (in Wabanaki, the "clam-gathering place.") The Massachusetts Colonial Ordinance of 1641-1647 granted every household "free fishing and fowling as far as the tide doth ebb and flow." Maine retained this law when it became a state in 1820. To learn more about clam digging past and present, check out the Downeast Fisheries Trail at www.downeastfisheriestrail.org.

Contact Tours of Lubec and Cobscook, for a family-friendly, touchable-tour, try digging at Cobscook Bay State Park, where campers may dig up to a peck of clams per person. Check with park staff for details, or ask a local if they will take you! To experience eating clams while on your visit to Downeast Maine (even if you want to skip the mud and just eat them at a restaurant!) contact an area Chamber of Commerce. Knowledgeable chamber staff will help you discover your fresh-harvested seafood supper experience of a lifetime.

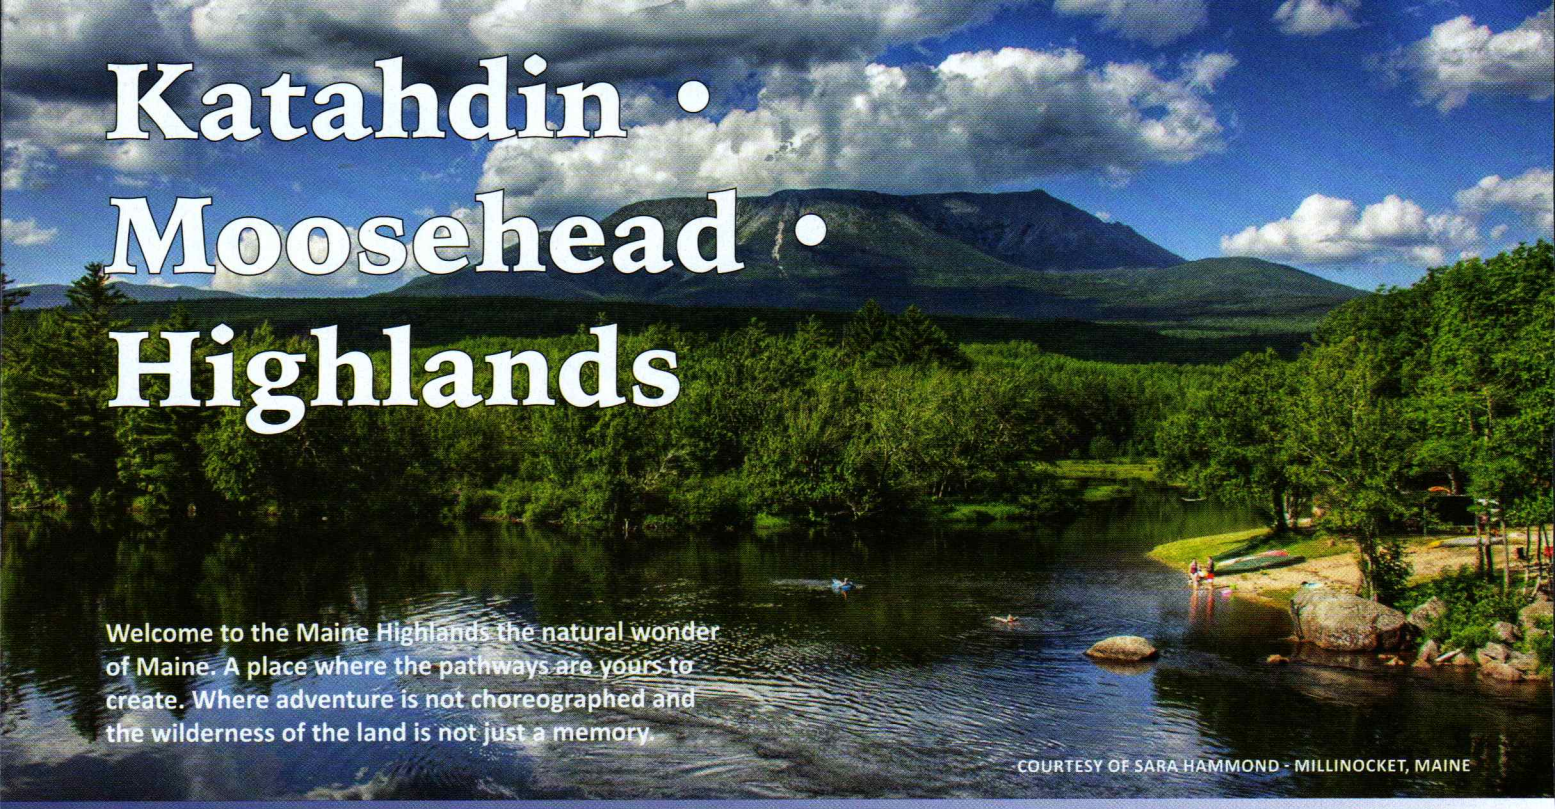
Katahdin • Moosehead • Highlands



Welcome to the Maine Highlands the natural wonder of Maine. A place where the pathways are yours to create. Where adventure is not choreographed and the wilderness of the land is not just a memory.

COURTESY OF SARA HAMMOND - MILLINOCKET, MAINE

Two of Maine's most spectacular natural assets are located within the scenic "The Maine Highlands" region. The 40-mile long Moosehead Lake, and the majestic and challenging mile-high Mt. Katahdin at Baxter State Park attract outdoor enthusiasts from around the world.

Though it has many aspects of the great wilderness, it is in fact a working forest supplying fiber for many of the products you use on a daily basis. The Maine Highlands region offers some of the finest camping, fishing, boating, hiking and hunting anywhere.

Spectacular views and impressive panoramas can be found throughout the region, but nothing is more spectacular than Baxter State Park. Left in perpetuity to the state by Gov. Percival Baxter, the 200,000-acre forest preserve is a massive tract of land traversed by remote hiking trails and dominated by Mt. Katahdin. The park is also famous for its Maine wildlife — bears, moose, eagles and deer — and the fact it marks the beginning of the 2,050- mile Appalachian Trail.

Another must-see location is in nearby Brownville Junction. Gulf Hagas, as it is known, is a 3-mile gorge often called the "Grand Canyon of the East."

One of the major communities in this part of the region — Millinocket — has a rich history of papermaking and lumbering and several museums allow visitors to appreciate and understand that part of Maine's history.

While in the Katahdin-area, you might want to visit:

- The Ambejejus Boom House on Ambejejus Lake in Millinocket offers insights into the old days of papermaking.

- The Lumberman's Museum in Patten depicts the golden days of the logger and lumberjack.

- The Millinocket Museum includes artifacts and collections relating to period appliances, money and Native American craftwork.

- The Northern Timber Cruisers Antique Snowmobile Museum is located in Millinocket and offers the history of early snowmobiling in the Katahdin region.

- Our newly designated scenic byway, on Route 11 from Grindstone (northeast of Millinocket) to Patten.

If Mt. Katahdin dominates one third of this extensive region, another third of the area is dominated by Moosehead Lake. More than 40-miles long and up to 20 miles wide in some areas, the lake's picturesque shoreline includes everything from bogs to sandy beaches. The largest lake in New England, Moosehead is dotted with islands and ringed by high mountains that offer great opportunities for picnics, scenic vistas and photographs.

Greenville, nestled at the southern tip of Moosehead Lake, serves as base camp for many guide services, outfitters, canoe renters and rafting adventurers. It's also the largest

We understand and appreciate that pets are often an important part of camping families. Please call ahead to be sure the campground you choose has a pet policy that works for you.

Many campgrounds in Maine allow pets. Management has to be sensitive to non-pet owners comfort levels when formulating their properties rules.

Here are some examples of rules you might expect:

1. Keep pets on a short leash at all times.
2. Carry proof of vaccinations.
3. If you leave, take your pet with you.
4. Pick up after your pet and properly dispose of all pet waste in trash receptacles.
5. Your pet's behavior is your responsibility, if it misbehaves, you may be asked to leave.
6. For health and safety reasons pets are not allowed in pool and playground areas.

Your cooperation and understanding will help.

Thank you.

seaplane base in New England, and hundreds of seaplanes buzz into Greenville for the International Seaplane Fly-in Weekend in September.

Another natural attraction at Moosehead Lake is Mt. Kineo, a 700-foot-high peninsula connected to the east shore of Moosehead, though sometimes that piece of land is covered by water. Once the home of an exclusive and stately summer resort, Mt. Kineo is another great site for picnics, exploring and adventure. Kineo is a mountain of rhyolite that the Native Americans used to make their arrowheads. It is about a one-mile boat ride to Kineo from the west shore of Moosehead in Rockwood.

Must-sees in the Greenville area include:

• The Moosehead Marine Museum offers a collection of photographs and memorabilia from the lake's steamboat history.

• The S/S Katahdin, a restored 1914 steamboat ferries passengers around the lake during the summer months.

• Annual Forest Heritage Days in Greenville — Early August (see Moosehead Chamber website for description).

Naturally, camping, fishing, hiking, canoeing, rock climbing and exploring are major components of any visit to the Moosehead Lake area. There are plenty of outdoors and wilderness adventure centers open to assist in planning family trips, and you might even consider going on a moose safari— but, remember, pack only your camera— no shooting allowed.

For a wide variety of shopping, explore the twin cities of Brewer and Bangor. Of course, shopping is not all there is to do in the twin cities. For example, there are several unusual restaurants located on Bangor's waterfront and music often fills the air as boats make their way up and down the Penobscot River.

Just across the bridge from Bangor, is the city of Brewer. Filled with unique shopping and dining experiences, the city is a mixture of historical sights and monuments. Stop by Chamberlain Freedom Park to experience a tribute to General Chamberlain, and read his famous quotes.

One of the most impressive sights in Bangor is a 31-foot, 21⁄2-ton statue of Paul Bunyan that is probably one of the most photographed monuments in Maine. You will certainly want to have your picture taken standing next to the statue. Everyone does!

Look carefully in Bangor and you might just find the 1854 Italianate Villa home of Stephen King. It's not hard to spot, really, because an iron fence featuring eerie cutouts and figures of animals surrounds it.

There are several downtown tours of Bangor available that bring the history of the city to life and that allow you to visit many of the spectacular homes built by logging barons more than 100 years ago.

Just up the road from Bangor is the main campus of the University of Maine at Orono. Impressive collections are on display in the many museums located right on campus and in Downtown Bangor at the University of Maine Art Museum.

Other attractions in the Bangor area include:

• The Penobscot Theatre Company, a year around professional theatre located in Downtown Bangor in the Bangor Opera House.

• Hollywood Slots Hotel & Raceway, located in Bangor.

• Bangor City Forest and the Orono Bog Boardwalk, one of Bangor's hidden gems. A National Natural Landmark, the bog walk is an educational opportunity for all ages.

• The Cole Land Transportation Museum features 200 Maine antique land transportation vehicles. It features the nation's most complete collection of snow removal equipment and fire engines, farm equipment, a unique military collection, trains, cars, wagons, sleighs, sleds and carriages.

• The Maine Forest and Logging Museum (Leonard's Mills) is dedicated to preserving and showcasing the history of the Maine woods in one of Maine's oldest historical sites.

• The University of Maine Museum of Art in Bangor is a fine arts museum exhibiting work by nationally and internationally known artists. The University of Maine also has collections on display at their campus in Orono.

• Maine Discovery Museum located in Downtown Bangor is the largest Children's Museum north of Boston.

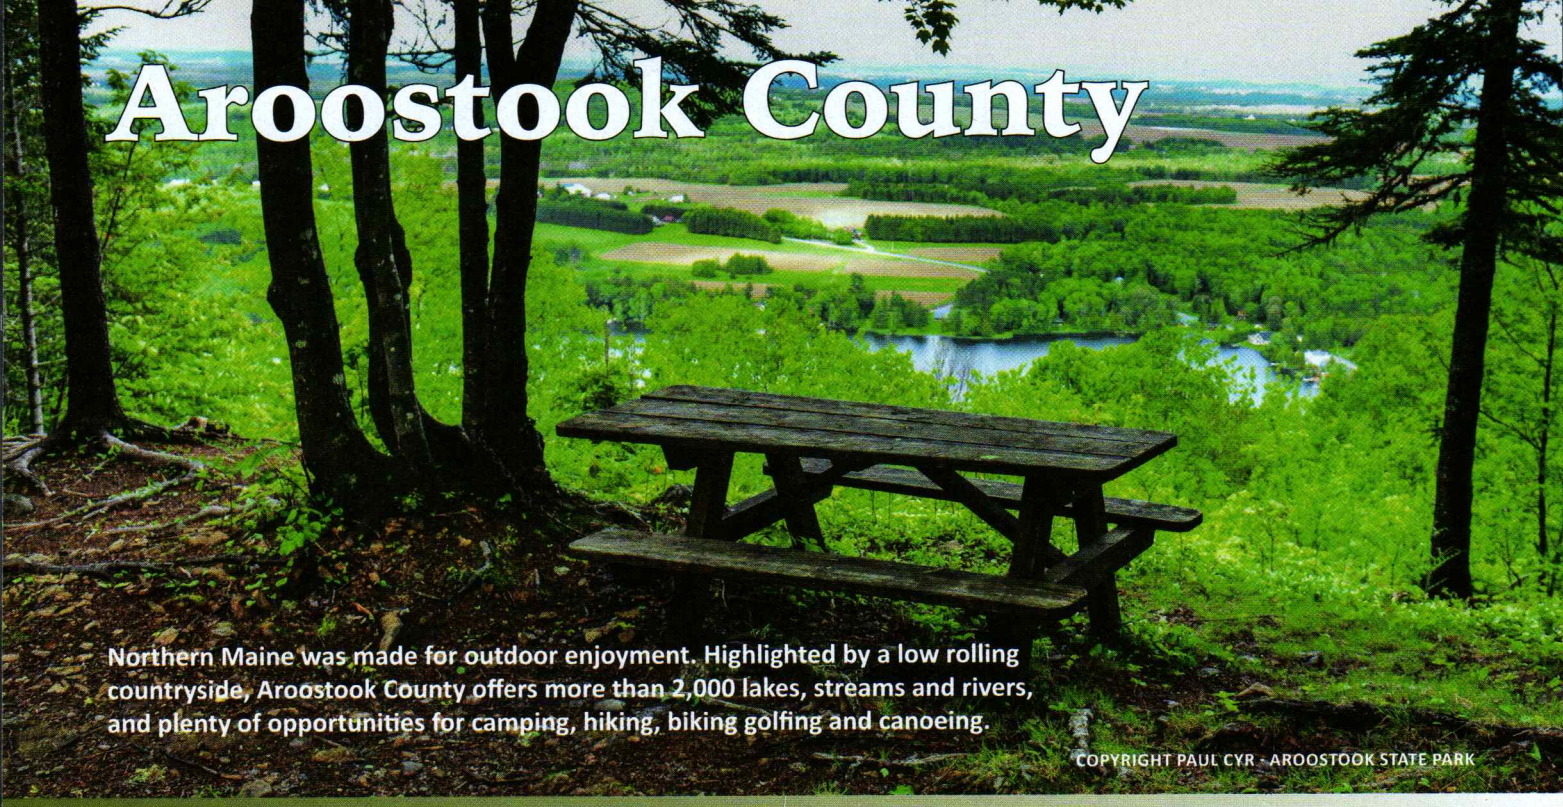
Aroostook County



Northern Maine was made for outdoor enjoyment. Highlighted by a low rolling countryside, Aroostook County offers more than 2,000 lakes, streams and rivers, and plenty of opportunities for camping, hiking, biking golfing and canoeing.

COPYRIGHT PAUL CYR - AROOSTOOK STATE PARK

Known simply to Mainers as "The County," it is larger in area than the states of Connecticut and Rhode Island combined and is dotted with rolling farmlands that produce more than 40 million bushels of potatoes each year.

The region blends several distinct cultures including a strong Acadian Heritage, a Swedish Colony, two Native American tribes and an Amish community. On Maine's northern border, the St. John River Valley is home to local voices that carry a Francoise lilt, and menus boast traditional offerings of ploys and pot en pol.

Outdoor enthusiasts especially love "The County" because it offers unlimited opportunities for hiking, fishing, unrivaled canoe trips and whitewater rafting during spring runoff and some of the best cycling trails in the North East.

While Presque Isle and Caribou are the commercial centers of "The County," much activity is centered in smaller towns such as Fort Fairfield, which hosts the annual Potato Blossom Festival, and New Sweden which celebrates its Swedish heritage with a traditional Sommerfest each summer.

Some highlights of "The County" are:

- Market Square Historic Business District — in Houlton, that includes 28 architecturally significant structures dating from 1885 to 1910.
- The Oakfield Railroad Museum is located in the original railroad station in Oakfield and takes visitors back in time to the 19th century and the beginning of the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad in 1891.
- Southern Aroostook Agricultural Museum located on US Route 1 in Littleton. Pot luck suppers, annual car show and dances.
- Caribou's Nylander Museum features geological collections, and collections of local butterflies, moths, mounted birds and animals.
- The 16 buildings in the Acadian Village in Van Buren are furnished with period furniture and other artifacts dating from 1790-1900.
- The Fort Kent blockhouse was constructed in 1839 for the bloodless Aroostook Border War. The site was part of a more extensive fortification and contains a small museum.
- The Reed Art Gallery at the University of Maine at Presque Isle features the work of Maine and Canadian artists.

MAINE BUG WATCH

Firewood Do's and Don'ts

What would camping be without a campfire? Sad... What would Maine forests be without trees? Sadder yet!

The Asian Longhorned Beetle and the Emerald Ash Borer are marching across the country with their eyes on Maine's beautiful forests and woodlands. Buying firewood where you burn it was not the brain child of the Maine Campground Owners Association and the law was not our idea but we strongly support the effort of the Maine Forest Service to protect our states natural resources.

Please support our effort to protect vacationland by not moving firewood into Maine and not moving firewood within Maine more than 50 miles. If you arrive with firewood you may be asked to burn it all immediately.

This is a serious problem.

1. Don't give bugs a free ride to their next meal.
2. Do buy wood where you burn it and be part of the solution.
3. Visit the forest service website for more information at www.maine.gov/firewood

Thank you for your understanding, and for keeping VACATIONLAND safe for your future vacations.

Acadian Festival in Madawaska — includes a re-enactment of the first Acadian landing in northern Maine — late June.

Maine Potato Blossom Festival in Fort Fairfield—celebrates one of Maine's most famous foods —mid - July.

Annual Community Bazaar in Van Buren—is a three-day carnival—early August.

Presque Isle State Fair—midway and agricultural exhibits — early August.

Houlton Potato Feast Days—parade, dances, store sales, a fun run, & more - late August.

Lille Classic Music Festival in Lille Village/Grand Isle—chamber music by groups from near and far—early September.

Haystack Cave is on Haystack Mountain in the Haystack Public Lot maintained by the community of Castle Hill.

The Deboullie Caves - Located in the Deboullie Public Reserved Lands, which is seventy miles north of Baxter State Park. It is a remote and isolated area that is biologically diverse containing over twenty-two deep spring fed ponds, which are over 1000 feet in elevation and four rugged mountains with sheer cliffs, talus fields and ice caves. These intrusions are rare in northern Maine so when the glacier made its mark on the region the harder rock had remained to formed many sheer cliffs and at least a dozen large talus fields.

Cruising Through Maine:
You Can (Really) Get There From Here

America begins its day in Maine. It's a statement denoting that ours is the first state to see the sun – the state motto Dirigo translates as "I Lead." Spend a little time here though, and you might just spy the myriad small ways that put us ahead of other places, ways that have kept generations past – and will keep generations to come – enthralled with the almost indescribable beauty and broad diversity of experiences to be had in our magnificent state.

So no matter where you choose to watch the sun's rays peak over the horizon: from a rocky Down East outcropping up near West Quoddy (yes Down East is "up"), atop Mount Katahdin at the northern terminus of the Appalachian Trail, or marveling its quiet spectacle while collecting shells along the tide line at York Beach, your days spent in Maine will leave you yearning to return for many, many more.

The Maine Beaches

Our Maine Beaches are a most welcome way to enter the state known as Vacationland since 1935. Miles and miles of sugary sand punctuated by small cities and towns that balloon with visitors looking to capture a few days or maybe a week or two of perfect summertime bliss. From Kittery to Old Orchard Beach, the beaches have long been mainstays of the ideal Maine vacation. Just follow US-1 from the state line up through some of the nation's oldest communities, visit cultural enclaves like Ogunquit and the "Kennebunks" rife with the trappings of any major American city: museums, cafés, brewpubs and boutiques. Spend a little time at Old Orchard Beach under the dazzling lights of our oceanfront amusement park. Each step you take here, whether through the history of York, the natural beauty of the Rachel Carson Wildlife Refuge, the cool wooded splendor of Sanford, shopping at Kittery or spending a little time along the main streets of Saco and Biddeford, will have you curious about what more there is to see here in Maine.

Cities & Towns: Kittery, York, Ogunquit, Wells, Kennebunk, Kennebunkport, Old Orchard Beach, Biddeford, Saco and Sanford

Roads & Highways: I-95, US1 & 1A, Rt. 9, Rt. 202, Rt. 11, Rt. 4, Rt. 103

Notable Features: The Nubble Light, Ogunquit Playhouse, Funtown/Splashtown,Palace Playland, York Wild Kingdom, Saco Drive-in, sunset cruises and whale watching

Greater Portland & Casco Bay

Wandering north along US1, I-295 or on Rt. 202 from interior parts of the state will bring you into the "big city scene" of Portland. Set high upon a peninsula overlooking the southern corner of Casco Bay, Portland's urbane but friendly inhabitants may sometimes seem a little too relaxed, but they are just a part of the scene. It's these touches that add character and make this welcoming city worthy of deeper exploration. Morning, noon or night, there is something happening along its cobbled side streets, broad avenues and salty old wharves. Shoppers, foodies and people watchers alike should start in the Old Port or up along Congress Street to find the keys to the delights of this fun and funky town. Looking for the offbeat? Visit Munjoy Hill or the Arts District and make sure to set aside time to savor the collection at the Portland Museum of Art or any of the city's many galleries. When night falls, you can just as easily catch any of a dozen performances as you would a fly ball at the game – from chamber music at Merrill Auditorium to a touring act at The State Theater or Seadogs baseball at Hadlock Field.Got a little time on your hands? Explore the islands of Casco Bay by ferry or take a drive through the many welcoming communities that surround the city. Just to the south seek out the Portland Head Light on the grounds of Ft. Williams or track down the "best Lobster Roll ever." No matter where you wind up, it will be delicious – this is the heart of lobster central.

Looking for more retail therapy? Head north on Rt. 1 or I-95 to Freeport, the home of L.L. Bean and more than a hundred retail stores, restaurants and outlets in this cheerful village.

Cities & Towns: Portland, South Portland, Cape Elizabeth, Falmouth, Freeport, Gorham, Pownal, Scarborough, Westbrook and Yarmouth

Roads & Highways: I-95 & 295, Rt. 302, Rts. 25 & 26, US-1 & 1-A, Rt. 77, Rt. 100, Rt. 9

Notable Features: The Old Port (on foot); Sea Dogs, Red Claws, and Pirates, Casco Bay Lines, Eartha, Scarborough Downs, Longfellow House, Audubon's Gilsland Farm, The Victoria Mansion

Maine's MidCoast

While just a short drive up the coast (along US-1 or I-295) from Portland, Maine's MidCoast is a sparkling string of pearls connecting visitors to our coastal, maritime and seafaring past. This region is peppered with some of Maine's most visited and adored towns, beaches and harbors. At about 100 miles from stem-to-stern (following the region's main artery US-1 from Brunswick to the Penobscot Bridge Observatory) but constituting over 1,500 miles of rough and beautiful coastline, the MidCoast offers untold activities for tourists and families alike, including the dozens of side trips 'down the point' and those with countless adventures they offer. This is the classic American tourist ride – you might wander all day and not travel far. Maine's MidCoast gives meaning to the journey being an important part of the trip. Take heed: In summer US-1 can sometimes slow up travelers' pace in spots. Drivers without a destination in mind should consider taking the trip along any of the nearly dozen fingers of land that stretch out to the sea, and make certain not to miss all the opportunities set at the head and heart of each of the harbors and cozy ports along the way. And if the land cannot hold you, explore the Gulf of Maine and Penobscot Bay by Windjammer, a different take on the many ways to see and experience this richly jewel-encrusted coastline.

Cities & Towns: Brunswick, Bath, Boothbay Harbor, Wiscasset, Damariscotta, Rockland, Rockport, Camden, Belfast and Searsport

Roads & Highways: US-1, I-295, Rt. 17, and Rt. 3

Coastal Excursion Routes: Harpswell (Rt. 123); Bailey & Orr's Islands (Rt. 124); Phippsburg and Popham Beach (Rt. 209); Georgetown and Reid State Park (Rt. 127), Westport (Rt. 144); Boothbay Harbor (Rt. 27); Christmas Cove (Rt. 129); Pemaquid and New Harbor (Rt. 130); Round Pond (Rt. 32); Friendship (Rt. 220), Port Clyde and St. George (Rt. 131)

Notable Features: Lobsters & Lighthouses, Reid State & Popham Beach State Park, Pemaquid Point, Monhegan Island (an hour by boat), Maine Maritime Museum, Whale Watches, The Farnsworth Museum, Camden Hills State Park, Windjammers

DownEast & Acadia

DownEast Maine and its several subregions offer one of Maine's most spectacular driving tours. Drive the 100 miles from Bucksport to Lubec along US-1 and you will be transported. For first-time visitors the long list of superlatives heaped onto DownEast & Acadia is well deserved: more lighthouses on the coast – including the eight you can see by boat along the Deer Isle Lighthouse Trail; America's most popular National Park, America's easternmost city (Eastport) and easternmost point (Lubec), the country's highest tides (at Calais), Maine's largest island (Mount Desert), and the highest Atlantic coastal peak north of Rio de Janeiro (Cadillac Mountain on Mount Desert Island).

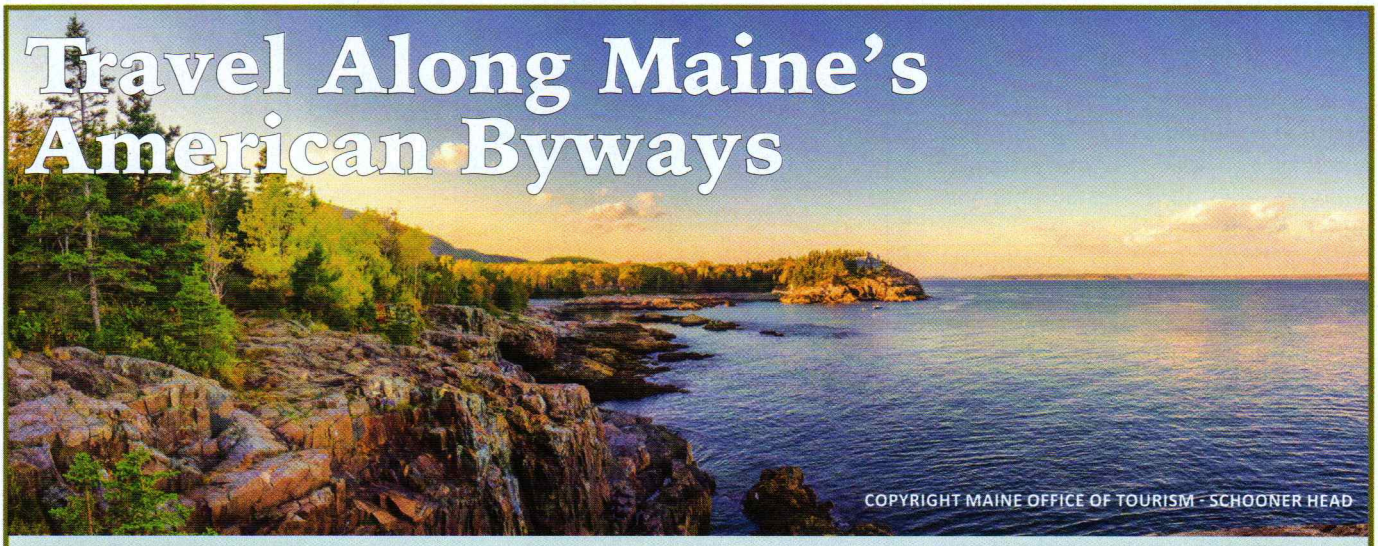
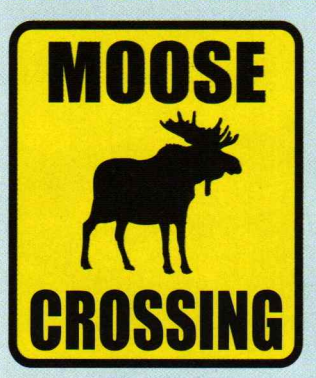
Travel Along Maine's American Byways





Each curvy twist and turn along the highways, cross routes and riverside drives throughout Maine will get you from here to there – wherever here and there are! But there are four very special routes that belong in the pantheon of our nation's most important roads: America's Byways® by our Federal Highway Administration.

What's in the name?

Across the country, nearly 150 roads have been selected, judged and officially designated for their contribution to the American experience in one or more of these six areas: archaeological, cultural, historic, natural, recreational and scenic qualities. Roads possessing just one of these designations take on the moniker "National Scenic Byway," whereas those special roadways adding something truly unique – and two or more of the six named contributions – get elevated in status to "All-American Road."

While relatively small, Maine's family of American Byways represents an excellent cross-section of our great state from the high-mountain and far-off lake vistas dotted with quintessential and quaint New England towns along the Rangeley Lakes Scenic Byway to the unspoiled, rugged shoreline beauty presented along the Down East coastal route that makes up the Schoodic National Scenic Byway. The Old Canada Road National Scenic Byway is a time machine that traces a historic trail along the Kennebec River, one cut by generations of French Canadians who poured into Maine in pursuit of a new life.

Our most beloved byway is a singular beauty. The Acadia All-American Road takes travelers through the enjoyable, but often frenzied, summer enclave of Bar Harbor into the deep contrast of Acadia – our nation's most popular National Park. We have yet to find anything that compares to dawn from the summit of Cadillac Mountain, the heritage and mystique of Jordan Pond, the saddled rage of the sea at Thunder Hole, and the miles of carriage roads that wend their way through this magnificent park, an absolute gift to the world.

These are all very impressive, but still, they are only written superlatives. Experience the marvel as you venture along the 85-mile-long DownEast Sunrise Trail or the Schoodic Scenic Byway.

Allow the region's friendly nature to be expressed through a local shop owner in Ellsworth or Bar Harbor. Or simply pause to ponder how man and nature have worked together to construct something so indescribably beautiful as Acadia National Park.

Unless you're traveling off the beaten path, US-1 and 1A will take you most anywhere you need to get along the coast. Rt. 9, or simply "The Airline," cuts across Hancock and Washington counties on their way to Calais. The communities of Lubec, Mars Hill, Eastport and Cadillac Mountain all bicker over who is the first to see the sun each morning, but no matter. From Grand Lake Stream's unmatched sporting opportunities to the welcoming candy-stripes of West Quoddy Light, the Down East region is unmatched in its beauty. And don't forget to drop in on the Roosevelt's at Campobello.

Cities & Towns: Bar Harbor, Ellsworth, Machias, Eastport, and Calais

Roads & Highways: Rt. 1 & 1A, Rt. 9, Rt. 3, Rt. 15, Rt.198, Rt. 189, and Rt. 191

Scenic Byways: National Scenic Byways: Schoodic Scenic Byway & Acadia All-American Road, State Scenic Byways: Blackwoods (Rt. 182), Bold Coast

Notable Features: Penobscot Narrows Bridge and Observatory, Twenty-five lighthouses including West Quoddy & Bass Harbor Headlight, The Historic Schooner "Bowdoin" in Castine, Mount Desert Island home to Acadia National Park and Bar Harbor, Roosevelt Campobello International Park, and World-class fishing at Grand Lake Stream.

The Crown of Maine Aroostook County

Not typically considered part of inland Maine and not a coastal region, Aroostook has a story all it's own. Typically known by its more familiar name The County is a full 5th of the size of Maine. Also known as the Crown of Maine, it possesses a quiet luster that is vibrantly colored by its culture and closely-knit people. With most of its cities perched on the state's eastern border with Canada there is an interesting international feel to the place. Farmland, forest, beautiful crystal clear lakes; The County is worth the drive. Spot Katahdin from Rt. 11 or from the final bits of I-95 before it ends in Houlton. US-1 allows for spectacular views (known as the Million Dollar View Scenic Byway. Daytime trips offer beauty in virtually every direction, and nights often bring the mysterious Northern Lights. Sporting types who travel here in the winter know that cruising takes on an alternate meaning with more than 1,000 miles of snowmobiling trails – doing double duty as ATV trails in warmer weather. Along the western edge, Rt. 11 skirts an endless sea of deep green that makes up the more than three million acres of working forestland of The North Maine Woods. And if you're planning on coming, don't forget your paddle because The County is home to the 92 miles of the Allagash Wilderness Waterway, a place many believe is the last truly wild waterway in our country.

Cities & Towns: Presque Isle, Caribou, Limestone, Houlton, Van Buren, Madawaska, and Fort Kent

Roads & Highways: I-95, Rt. 1 & 1A, Rt. 2 & 2A, Rt. 11, Rt. 89, Rt. 163 & 164

State Scenic Byways: Million Dollar View Scenic Byway (Rt. 1), St. John Valley Scenic Byway, and the Fish River Scenic Byway (Rt. 11)

Notable Features: St. Johns River, Snowmobiling, North Maine Woods, French-Canadian & Acadian Culture, Northern Lights, Allagash Wilderness Waterway, Ice Caves

into northern Maine will likely come through this modern city that makes itself a welcome host to events and performances all year long. For travelers headed on to other parts, I-95, Rt. 15, Rt. 9, Rt. 1-A, and Rt. 2 all prove access to the woods, the coast and even the mountains.

Those looking for memorable and scenic drives should make their way up Rt. 11 onto the Grindstone Scenic Byway – now known as the Katahdin Woods and Waters Byway – which encircles the eastern side of Baxter State Park, home to Maine's highest peak, Mt. Katahdin (just shy of a mile high), and the northern terminus of the Appalachian Trail. It also sits on the edge of the Allagash and parts of the Maine Woods introduced to us by Henry David Thoreau 150 years ago. Beautiful, quiet, green places along the West Branch of the Penobscot River and thundering pulse-pounding places that still draw us in for the thrill of whitewater along the East Branch of the Penobscot. Rt. 11 travels southwest out of Millinocket taking you towards another of the highlands most glorious features: the picturesque resort town of Greenville on Moosehead Lake. As Maine's largest lake there are no end to the things you can enjoy in the outdoors here – hiking, paddling, the age old traditions of hunting and fishing, moose safari and the spectacular sights to be seen from a top Mt. Kineo perched in the center of the lake just waiting for you to explore. This is the epitome of camping bliss, beautiful stretches of uninterrupted green punctuated with deep hues of blue from the lakes and ponds and just about nothing else to get in theway.

Cities & Towns: Bangor, Greenville, Lincoln, Millinocket, and Orono

Roads & Highways: I-95, Rt. 11, Rt. 202, Rt. 2, Rt. 6, Rt. 15, Rt. 16, and Rt. 11State Scenic Byways: Katahdin Woods and Waters Scenic Byway (Rt. 11), Moosehead Scenic Byway (Rt. 15)

Notable Features: Maine Children's Discovery Museum, The Bangor Waterfront,Paul Bunyan Statue at the Cross Insurance Center, Baxter State Park, Mount Katahdin, Paddling the East & West Branch of the Penobscot River, Whitewater Rafting and Guided Expeditions, Moose and Wildlife Safari, Moosehead Lake & Mt. Kineo, The Golden Road

Kennebec Valley

What can easily be said about The Kennebec Valley is that it is a place that offers two sides of the same coin. In it's southern towns and cities like Augusta (Maine state capital), Gardiner, Hallowell, Belgrade, and Waterville offer the civility and culture that accompany communities with architecturally beautiful and vibrant Main Streets, fine dining, museums, shopping and the performing arts. However, head north, and you'll pass into wild country. North, above Skowhegan and Madison you arrive in some of the finest hunting and fly-fishing country our state has to offer; north, to the rollicking and pounding excitement of whitewater on the Kennebec & Dead Rivers. North to Coburn Mountain near Jackman, Maine's highest groomed snowmobile trail. North to where Rt. 201 becomes the Old Canada Road Scenic Byway which carries you through twisting and swiftly rising roads into picturesque parts of Maine and quaint and quiet New England towns. The Kennebec Valley is a quieter side of Maine that begs to be explored in every season. Paddling, hiking, snowmobiling, fishing are all here. And don't forget to look to explore the Kennebec Valley for its broad collection of fairs and festivals including the Nation's Oldest State Fair at Skowhegan, the Kneading Conference and Fiber Frolic in June.

Cities & Towns: Augusta, Gardiner, Hallowell, Waterville, Skowhegan, Madison,The Forks, and Belgrade Lakes

Roads & Highways: I-95, Rt. 201, Rt-2, Rt. 9, Rt. 202, Rt. 100, Rt. 27, and Rt. 16

Scenic Byways: National Scenic Byways: Old Canada Road Scenic Byway; State Scenic Byways: Moosehead Scenic Byway (Rt. 15)

Notable Features: The State Capital, Old Fort Western, Antiquing in Hallowell, Hobbitland at Vaughan Wood's, The Maine State Museum, Theater at Monmouth, Belgrade's Lakes, Waterville Opera House, LC Bates Museum, Colby College Museum of Art, The Skowhegan Indian, Lakewood Theater, Whitewater Rafting on the Kennebec and The Dead Rivers

Maine's Lake's & Mountains

Passing through the many communities that make up Maine's Lake's and Mountains you'll see that you are surrounded by nearly endless access to the outdoors. From the broad and welcoming shores of Sebago Lake in the south to the deep forested areas that flank the Appalachian Trail to the north and the hundreds of miles of ski slopes on Saddleback, Sugarloaf, and Sunday River. The beauty and bounty of being this close to nature gives visitors to the region no reason whatsoever to complain that they have nothing to do. Even the many small communities spread out through the region offer something for everyone: Take the Rangeley Lakes Scenic Byway - spot a moose, maybe. Visit Lewiston & Auburn's twin cities for a taste of in-town culture, and the Sebago area delivers on the promise of an easy lakeside summer vacation. Like the other inland regions, the Lakes & Mountains region is oriented primarily from south to north with communities connected not by four and six lane highways but by well-worn two lane roads with just enough scenery between them to remind you that you are still out in the country. Following Rt. 302 out of Portland brings you up into the Sebago Lakes region from there explore Fryeburg or Norway's Main Street. Continue north on Rt. 26 into Bethel, it's one of the sweetest and most beautiful mountain towns ever. Outside Newry don't forget to track down the famed Artist's Covered Bridge a magnet for generations of photographers and all kinds of artist.

This is Maine camping country and an apt place for the journey we have taken through Maine to come to a close. The pink clouds veined with golden light from the setting sun over the Presidential Range to the west are spectacular. Countless cascading and easy to reach waterfalls invite you in for the plunge – the Bigelow's, Flagstaff Lake, Kingfield, and Carrabassett Valley. Each and every one of these communities and all those across Maine are worth taking time to enjoy. Happy Driving.

Cities & Towns: Lewiston & Auburn, Rangeley, Bethel, Oxford, Kingfield, Fryeburg, Jay, Livermore & Livermore Falls, Gray, and Sebago

Roads & Highways: Rt. 302, Rt. 100, Rt. 4, US-2, Rt. 26 & 27, Rt. 16, Rt. 35, Rt.5

Scenic Byways: National Scenic Byways Rangeley Scenic Byway; State Scenic Byways: Grafton Notch Scenic Byway (Rt. 26), Pequawket Trail Scenic Byway (Rt. 113) State Route 27 Scenic Byway

Notable Features: Explore the Arts in Lewiston & Auburn, Skiing on Saddleback, Sunday River or Sugarloaf, Rapid River, The Stanley Steamer Museum, Tour all the covered bridges, ride The Songo River Queen at Sebago, Fryeburg Fair & L/A Balloon Festival

SOCIAL AREA: FOR YOUR DOG!

Written By: Woodall's Campground Management & Maine Campground Owners Association

As more families with pets hit the road, campground and RV park owners are having to find ways to keep these furry campers entertained. According to David Canning, owner of Orlando, FL based DOGIPOT, a supplier of dog park products for the past 25 years, more than 80 million dogs are in the U.S., and 56 million households own a dog.

"Between the Baby Boomers, who are empty nesters and want to travel everywhere with their dogs, and Millennials, who are waiting longer to have kids and are also bringing their dogs everywhere, not only has the number of campers that own dogs steadily increased over the years, but the interest in including them in our everyday lives has also increased," Canning explained. "You have a lot of people in those two generations that if they can't bring their dog somewhere, they are not going to go."

According to a study done in 2012 by DogTime.com, Maine is in the TOP FIVE most pet owning states at over 62%! An article published by NewsCenterMaine.com states that Maine, the Pine Tree State, ranked as #1 on the list of Most Pet Friendly states in the US! The article continued on to say that Maine has 76 dog-friendly beaches and nearly 1,000 pet friendly hotels – we would say it is only a matter of time before Maine Campgrounds with on-site dog parks is added to the list!

Naturally, that has put pressure on campground and RV park owners to include amenities that will attract pet owners and entertain their furry friends. More specifically, Bob Hansen, national account and marketing manager at Eclectic, AL based Pet and Playground, said "the dog parks themselves really add value to a campground, because a camper with a dog can now feel comfortable stopping for the night."

In addition to making traveling with your family best friend easier, campgrounds with dog parks add an avenue of outdoor recreation specifically for the dog. Other dog related amenities that many Maine campgrounds are beginning to include are waste bag dispensers and disposal containers, water bowls, and leash hooks.

COPYRIGHT MECOA

Gary Max, vice president of Seattle, WA based Dog-On-It-Parks, says "it gets families out exercising together and it is another opportunity for them to spend time together at your park, something they may rarely get a chance to do at home." "Dog parks have really begun to turn into social areas," he explained. "People are bringing their dogs to the dog parks, and really getting to know each other, and it's not just for exercising your dog."

"Dogs have a lot of energy and if they have been travelling, they need to burn that energy off," Canning said. "Having an area where they can do that will help cut down on the barking and some of the other issues park owners have with pets at their parks. Part of it is definitely pet owners taking responsibility for their pets, but at the same time park owners can help by providing these dog friendly spaces." The response from campers regarding dog parks at Maine campgrounds and RV parks has been overwhelmingly positive and we can't wait for the epidemic to further grow!
